EUROPE'S PEACE IS AT STAKE

MOUNT WADDINGTON.
Canada's "Everest" untamed and unscaled peak of British Columbia coast range.

Thirteen times in 50 years has this 400 feet of jagged, snow-encrusted rock—highest summit of 13,260-foot Mount Waddington in British Columbia—defied attempts to scale its heights. In July, a group of 12 intrepid mountain-climbers, chosen from all Canadian clubs, will make a new effort to scale this lofty spire of stone.

Alpinists Will Try Scaling Canada's Own Mt. Everest In July

VANCOUVER, June 1.—Ace Alpinists of two countries will join forces this summer in an attempt to scale towering Mount Waddington, unscaled king-peak of the British Columbia coast range.

Veterans of the Sierra club of San Francisco will represent the United States. Led by bespectacled Bestor Robinson, the Californians were turned back in 1935 in a 14th attempt to wrest victory from the 13,260-foot peak. Details of the Canadian personnel will be announced this month.

A strong German party under the leadership of Fritz Weisner and including Elizabeth Woolsey and William P. House is also planning a journey into the area. They will devote three weeks to climbing in the Franklin Glacier district after which it is believed they will test ropes with "Old Waddy."

Weisner figured prominently in the first German assault on Nanga Parbat—notorious "K-2"—closely linked with Mount Everest. With their entrance into the race the Vancouver-San Francisco expedition may be called upon to excel themselves to the utmost to claim the honor of first ascent.

Details of food and equipment are being worked out. It is planned to send in a large advance party to establish a base at Safton Creek. From this point the mountainous peak is in full view, eight miles distant. One or more outpost camps may be set up beyond the base camp to leave the climbers fresh for the height-assault.

A proposal to make a high overnight stop for the climbers also is receiving consideration. Such a camp might be made at either the head of Dais Glacier, on the south wall, or on a tiny plateau just below the north peak at an altitude of 12,000 feet and where the Sierra men sheltered last year.

This would enable the party to come in light and escape heavy freighting which has fixed all previous expeditions in their efforts to conquer forbidding ice wastes that bar the way to Waddington's grim summit.

DUCE DIVIDES ETHIOPIA FOR ROME EMPIRE

African Subjugation Now is Separated in Five Parts

By A. E. STUNTZ
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME, June 1.—Ethiopia was divided into five parts today by Benito Mussolini, creator of the new Roman Empire.

His cabinet approved a project by which each part becomes an administrative division. They are:

Eritrea—Capital, Asmara.
Amhara—Capital, Gondar.
Galla and Sidamo—Capital, Jimma.
Harar—Capital, Harar.
Somaliland—Capital Mogadiscio.

The cabinet announced each division represented a homogeneous organism, individually, geographically, historically and politically.

Addis Ababa was named the capital for the new administrative organization of Ethiopia with a viceroy in charge, aided by a vice governor-general and the chief of the general staff, the latter handling military matters.

The cabinet announced "the cabinet guarantees" for the Mohammedan religion. At the same time the Coptic Christian Church was made the object of explicit regulations because of its connection with the Coptic church of Egypt. These regulations, however, were not announced immediately.

Danish Woman Retains Net Title

PARIS, June 1.—Mme. Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Denmark and Germany retained her French hard court tennis singles championship, today defeating Mme. Rene Mathieu, veteran French star, 6-3, 6-4, in the final round.

Comfort and Convenience

The large number of houses and suites offered for rent in the Edmonton Bulletin Want Ad columns makes the selection of a new place of residence a comfortable and convenient experience—and an economical one, too.

The same facilities are also offered those who have houses and suites for rent.

The Bulletin Want Ad columns afford a popular and economical meeting place for those who want and those who have.

Aussies Beat U.S. At Tennis

PHILADELPHIA, June 1. — Jack Crawford defeated Wilmer Allison today, 4-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, to give Australia the third and deciding victory in the American zone Davis cup tennis series with the United States.

Six Killed In Week-End Mishaps

Showers Refresh

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., June 1.—Warm weather continued in southern Alberta today but good showers during the week-end refreshed crops over a wide area.

RAIL SERVICE BLOCKED BY RISING RIVER FLOOD

British Columbia Experiencing Worst Flood In 30 Years

WORST FLOOD IN THIRTY YEARS

PEACE RIVER, June 1.—Hot weather has struck the mountains as the Peace has risen several feet during the week and is now running almost bank full with a large amount of driftwood going down. The ferry at Dunvegan has been hauled out and traffic stopped to south side. The Russian Navy with a big load of freight left for Ft. Vermilion Friday, while Mr. and J. P. O'Sullivan gas boats returned from down river with several passengers and small cargoes, mostly fur.

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., June 1.—With the exception of wireless communication, northern British Columbia last night was isolated from the rest of Canada as the worst flood waters in 30 years swirled down the Skeena and other northern rivers and spread destruction over the countryside.

Rail and highway bridges were washed out crippling transportation, telegraph lines were down and the only method of communication with the outside world was by means of wireless to Victoria and Vancouver.

No lives were reported lost but damage estimates were expected to range well into the thousands of dollars as the muddy river waters rushed over their banks sweeping away small cabins, houses, bridges and livestock.

TRAFFIC EMBARGO

Canadian National Railway officials announced an embargo on all passenger and freight traffic between the coast terminal and Jasper, Alta.

Rail officials said the situation was so serious they would refuse all traffic indefinitely.

Wire communications suffered first as the debris-dotted waters brought miles of poles and telegraph and telephone wires down. Rail lines came next with small bridges and culvits washed out by the rushing streams.

Highways followed with the latest report stating approaches to the big bridge at Terrace, B.C., which connects that northern town with Lakeslea,-B.C., and is an im-

High Court Kills Wage Law For Women, Children

WASHINGTON, June 1.—By five to four, the United States Supreme Court today declared unconstitutional a 1933 New York state law establishing minimum wages for women and children.

The law fixed the minimum wage for women laundry workers at $12.40 a week. It was enacted in 1933.

Edmonton Rabbi Montreal Speaker

MONTREAL, June 1.—Jews have no quarrel with Arabs in Palestine but desire to work with them in development of a once-barren land, A. J. Freiman of Ottawa, president of Zionist organization in Canada, told the third plenary session of Canadian Jewish congress last night. Other speakers were Rabbi J. J. Rizen of Edmonton and I. Bohrover Katz of Calgary.

Peace River Man Now White Hope

MONTREAL, June 1.—Joseph Thibault of Peace River, Alta., is among the entrants in Montreal's second white hope boxing tournament to be held June 10. Thibault is 23, six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds, and is one of the larger contenders for the $250 prize which goes to the winner.

WOUND FATAL TO M'MULLEN, RYAN GUNMAN

Slayer of U.S. Immigration Officer Dies After Operation

SEATTLE, June 1.—The body of Edward McMullen, bandit and killer, lay on a morgue slab here last night. The last principal of the bank-looting "Ted" Ryan's gang died Saturday from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. Authorities expected the slayer's blonde widow, Mrs. Mary Maude McGill McMullen, might come to Seattle to claim the body.

Late Saturday the clue in the killer's arm—tattooed with the inscription "Death Or Glory"—stopped bleeding. Death came shortly after Dr. Walter Kelton operated on the bullet-pierced skull in an effort to prolong the life of the man United States federal agents charged with the murder of immigration inspector Charles Flachs.

COMPLETE FRACTURE

X-ray photographs showed the bullet McMullen fired through his own head caused a fracture completely encircling the skull. The bullet entered the left eye, penetrated the brain and shattered the back of the skull.

Earlier it had been thought McMullen might live to die on the scaffold for the murder of Flachs, shot as he sought to search the

ELUSIVE SHIP CANADA-BOUND

LONDON, June 1.—The elusive trawler Girl Pat, variously reported off the coast of Spain and North Africa on a quest for gold or pirate-treasure, has set her course for Canada, according to the Dakar correspondent of the Sunday Express.

The trawler will reach the dominion, according to the correspondent, by crossing the south Atlantic and following the American coast.

Premier Surprised At Continued Criticisms By Major C. H. Douglas

That Major Clifford Hugh Douglas, former principal reconstruction adviser to the Alberta government, and the London Social Credit secretariat, should continue to criticize the work of the government "when they have no real opportunity of knowing what is being done" is a matter of great surprise to Premier William Aberhart.

The Premier's statement was made when asked to comment on the recent release by Major Douglas of full correspondence between the government and himself, as well as Major Douglas's statements regarding government activities here.

SHOULD REFRAIN

"It would seem to me that when Major Douglas was released from his contract, in which he had agreed to assist in the establishment of Social Credit, he should be courteous enough to refrain from criticism in any respect whatever.

"He, of course, could not be responsible even if there were mistakes made. I feel satisfied that when the task is accomplished, to which we have set our hands, he will have some difficulty in explaining his position to the public.

"I am sure that those who read the correspondence published from London would not fail to notice that his order to buy bonds at five or six points lower than the market price, could not have a stabilizing effect on the market, but rather the reverse. It really indicates how

FOG ROBS BIG SHIP IN RECORD OVER ATLANTIC

Queen Mary 9 Hours Behind Time Set By Normandie

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Queen Mary passed Ambrose lightship at 5:35 a.m. M.S.T. today, completing her maiden voyage across the Atlantic.

ABOARD R.M.S. QUEEN MARY June 1.—The Queen Mary, British super-liner, made her maiden crossing of the Atlantic ocean in four days, 12 hours, 24 minutes, it was announced on board today as the steamship approached quarantine in lower New York harbor.

Fog robbed the giant British liner of an opportunity to break the Normandie's record. The fog settled down over the course she was following late Saturday and compelled a reduction of speed.

The time set by the Normandie when she established a new record

CANADA BANK OWNERSHIP UP IN COMMONS

Measure Designed to Secure Govt. Control to Feature Parliament

OTTAWA, June 1.—Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance, took the first step in the House of Commons today for the government to obtain stock control of the Bank of Canada.

OTTAWA, June 1. — As Parliament resumed today, it appeared the week in the commons would be featured by introduction of legislation designed to ensure the government majority ownership of the Bank of Canada.

This will be sought in a resolution, to be moved by Hon C. A. Dunning, finance minister, amending the Bank of Canada Act to increase the capital stock and provide sufficient shares to be acquired by the government to make possible the majority ownership.

INCREASE OWNERSHIP

The amendment would also provide for increase in the board of directors and appointment and election of directors by the government would have voting control.

It is expected there will be a discussion this week of the anticipated copyright act amendments. Hon. Fernand Rinfret, secretary of state, has had notice of this on the order paper for some time.

BENNETT TO SPEAK

While Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, is expected to speak at some length on the Bank of Canada proposals, it is believed he will confine his remarks to the principle nor ask his followers to do so.

A senate committee will study proposed amendments to the British North America Act. Meanwhile their fate is problematical due to criticism by the Conservative majority in the upper house.

MURDER-KIDNAP CHARGES LAID

DETROIT, June 1.—Murder and kidnapping warrants were asked by Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea today for two more men in the Black Legion "executioner" Charles A. Poole, bringing the number held in the slaying to 15.

The two men named in the latest warrants recommended by McCrea are Virgil Morrow and Albert Stevens, who had been held for questioning over the week-end.

Young Ontario Flier Killed

Tax Collections Gain

OTTAWA, June 1.—Revenue Minister Ilsley today announced income tax collections in May totalled $50,322,454 compared with $40,616,834 in May, 1935, a net increase of $9,705,620.

ITALY SENDING MILLION MEN ON ARMS TEST

Display of Power for Frontier Expected to Awe League

By A. E. STUNTZ
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME, June 1.—Italy prepared a display of potential force today to bolster her annexation of Ethiopia before the League of Nations.

Premier Mussolini decided to send more than 1,000,000 soldiers in a test mobilization to the northern frontier, reliable sources asserted, at the same time the League Council resumes June 16 its discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The exhibition is intended to prove the Fascist nation stands behind the declaration of its dictator Ethiopia will not be relinquished even at the cost of a European war.

The Italian military test is expected to last several days.

GROUP NAMED ON EMPLOYMENT

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, June 1.—The National Employment Commission, with Arthur Purvis, the chairman, presiding, this morning decided to appoint a permanent committee of three who for the next two years will devote their entire time to the work.

Tom Moore, former president of the Trades and Labor Congress and later a member of the Unemployment and Social Insurance Commission; E. J. Young, former member of Parliament, and Mrs. Mary McCallum Sutherland were the three commissioners selected.

The trio will first make a survey of the entire employment situation throughout Canada, co-operating at the same time with the Dominion public works program which seeks to reduce the number of unemployed.

CAT MOTHERS FIVE SKUNKS

RIMBEY, Alta., June 1.—Kittens and skunks are playmates on the farm of R. Welsch of the Willesden Green district near here.

Five orphaned baby skunks have been adopted by the Welsch cat, who is also the mother of five youngsters. The ill-assorted family eat together, romp and wrestle and at night nestle in beside the mother cat.

INFLUENCE OF MME. LUPESCU IS PROTESTED

BUCHAREST, June 1.—In gigantic country-wide demonstrations, 520,000 farmers of the Rumanian Peasant party protested Sunday against the influence of Mme. Magda Lupescu in the government and urged official persecution of Nazi organizations.

It was the greatest mobilization of the Peasant party, headed by Ion Mihalache, in Rumanian history. In the capital, 120,000 marched through the main streets, while parades and protest meetings in which 900,000 participated took place at other points.

ZIONCHECK NOW IN CRAZY WARD

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Representative Marion A. Zioncheck of Washington state was charged today in an order committing him to Gallinger hospital with being "of unsound mind."

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Representative Zioncheck of Seattle was committed today by police, sent him to Gallinger hospital for examination as to his sanity.

Zioncheck had called at the White House executive offices twice during the morning, asking to see President Roosevelt.

Inspector Bernard Thompson, chief of detectives, said the member of the state delegates House of Representatives would be placed under "mental observation."

Zioncheck left a brief case containing empty beer bottles and a can of moth balls at the executive offices, saying they were "for the President."

CHINA DECIDES OPPOSING JAPS

By MORRIS J. HARGIS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

SHANGHAI, June 1.—Inspired by the valiant Great Wall defenders of 1933, General Sung Cheh-Yuan, chairman of the Hopeh-Chahar military council, decided today to pursue a stronger policy against Japan's military expansion in North China.

Reports from Peiping said this decision was reached following all-night conferences of North China mayors.

General Sung, who became head of the Semi-Autonomous Council for Hopeh and Chahar provinces when it was organized last Dec. 18 as a compromise answer to demands for 100% Chinese independence, was said to have been inspired in his new stand by officers of the famous 29th route army.

NORTHERN B.C. ISOLATED BY FLOOD WATER

ALL WIRES DOWN

Canadian National Telegraph officials said all wires were down west of McBride, B.C., some 60 miles inside the British Columbia-Alberta boundary, while toll lines were crippled west of Smithers. It was not known whether the transportation lines were badly affected between Smithers and McBride.

Rail lines and numerous small bridges were reported washed out along the Prince Rupert-Smithers line, but officials said the main line was not affected.

FAMILIES EVACUATING

Meanwhile reports trickled in from the Skeena Valley and Usk on the Bulkley river in the Hazelton district, telling of crippled land and water lines and families evacuating homes before the rising waters.

Inhabitants of islands on the Skeena river between Hazelton and Usk left their homes, as did residents of waterfront properties in both districts where a 30-year high-water record was broken. The village of Usk was reported under four feet of water, its residents having fled to higher ground.

Hazelton was in darkness last night as flood waters, dotted with trees, small cabins and bridge timbers, swirled into the lower part of town and flooded the power house. The water reached its highest point since the 1917 flood mark with no indications of a cessation while the temperature hit the 91-mark.

The flood conditions struck the southern part of British Columbia in the vicinity of Kamloops, where the Thompson river went on the rampage while the mercury sky-rocketed to 88 in the shade with little hope of immediate relief.

RIVERS OVER BANKS

One small bridge was washed out, another made unsafe and an irrigation dam washed out. All tributaries of the Thompson river above Kamloops were reported over or nearly over their banks.

Freak weather hit the coast province almost a week ago, following closely on the heels of a hot spell.

HEAT AND RAIN

The coast and lower mainland have suffered electrical storms, and, in some districts, torrential rains have fallen, while interior towns reported heat records broken by the skyrocketing mercury.

No relief for interior points from the terrific heat was promised last night as the official weather forecast predicted a continuance of high temperatures. Cloudy, cool weather was forecast for Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

Local CNR officials state that all traffic from Prince Rupert will be held up indefinitely. It will be a matter of days before they can come through on this line as track has been washed out for several hundred yards and the trestles and bridges, the Bulletin was informed.

If the Fraser river, which has been rising for several days, does not start to subside soon there is danger that both C.N.R. and C.P.R. main lines to Vancouver may be damaged by flood waters, it was reported locally Monday.

for the westward Atlantic crossing last year was four days, three hours 13 minutes, 30 seconds.

The Normandie, however, covered a course shorter by 193 miles than that taken by the Queen Mary. The British liner's crossing was computed from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose light. The French steamship's was computed from Bishop's Rock in the English channel.

The average speed of the Queen Mary was 29.133 knots an hour for the crossing.

Her slow, majestic passage toward quarantine in the lower New York harbor, was marked by passing ships with the customary sea salute of a wide-open whistle.

Stately Ship Gets Tumultuous Greeting

NEW YORK, June 1.—The stately Queen Mary, passing her way slowly into New York harbor today, experienced her first taste of the tumultuous welcome the big city reserves for heroes.

Hundreds of small harbor craft, out of Gravesend and Sheepshead bays and the coves of Staten island and the north Jersey shore, bobbed on the brown, sunlit waters of the outer harbor filled with excursionists, fishermen, the curious and the excited.

They watched the towering funnels and the shiny hull moving quietly towards the Narrows. On the lower bay shore of Brooklyn hundreds of men, women and children, magically free of whatever duties ordinarily engage them, jammed the waterfront.

Planes droned and roared over the giant ship. The day was clear, so even from the far hills of Staten island the Queen Mary was seen as she moved to quarantine.

CANNED FOOD CHIEF VISITS

Western division manager of Libby, McNeill and Libby, A. P. S. Maclean, of Vancouver, was in Edmonton Monday on a trip that will take him to all cities of the foothills and Pacific coast province.

"Business is better," he said, "but as you've heard nothing but that for a long time, I'll pass up the subject."

In his place, the canned foods sales chief talked Vancouver's jubilee and the $500,000 preparation for the celebration. Visitors will draw thousands of prairieites to the C.P.R. coastal terminal city.

Up from Seattle on May 25, he returned to Vancouver, but a few thousand other Canadians on the same trip journeyed to Portland and cars were blocked on the roads for two miles.

"Due to the new $100 custom exemption for tourists that is the big attraction," he said.

Noted Canadian Artist Is Dead

TORONTO, June 1.—Arthur Henry Carey, 55, noted Canadian artist, died here Sunday.

Mr. Carey was born in England, coming to Canada in 1910. He studied at the Ontario College of Art.

Mrs. A. E. Whitehouse and Mrs. William Scott, both of Vancouver, are sisters.

TYPEWRITER TYCOON WILL SEE BATTLE

J. J. Seitz, Donor of Underwood Basketball Trophy, Here Monday

J. J. Seitz who, forty years ago, founded Underwood in a small Toronto office and watched it grow into the Underwood, Elliot, Fisher typewriter empire of today, that reaches from coast to coast and across the ocean to the United Kingdom, came back to Edmonton on the week-end to see Edmonton Grads defend the international trophy which he presented to the basketball world.

Tall, robust, active, the typewriter chief is 75, but Sunday, shooting his usual game in the low eighties, took his Edmonton branch manager, Bill Fawcett, into camp with a round of golf on the Highlands course.

FIRST PERFORMANCE

This spring before leaving on a vacation-business tour to Florida through the States and up to Canadian cities of the Pacific coast, J. J. Seitz was feted by his employees on the occasion of his 40th anniversary in business.

Branches from coast to coast had pictures taken, signatures reproduced and a leather bound book containing them was presented to the "chief."

"To hear him talk, one of the happiest moments in his life was when his son, Ernest Seitz, composer of 'The World is Calling For The Sunrise', played the opus at a dinner given in Toronto in honor of the typewriter pioneer. Written years ago, it was the first time the composer played his melody in public.

A great friend of Percy Page, Mr. Seitz who prefers to be called "J. J.", donated the Underwood Trophy to international basketball and Monday night will be out at the Arena to toss up the first ball.

Buffalo Bubble - Blower

Youngsters who puff with pride after blowing a soap bubble as big as a grapefruit will gain in amazement at the work of Wallace Block, Buffalo bubble-blower par excellence. It isn't done with mirrors or intricate apparatus, and anyone can serve the purpose. Nevertheless, Block, who is forever blowing bubbles, can easily produce specimens almost as large as himself, and even put them through surprising tricks. He can put one at left above, for instance, has just jumped through that little hoop, then expanded to the size of a miniature blimp. At right, with his hands, Block molds another of his soapy creations.

$50,000 CASH OFFERED FOR RACE BY AIR

South African Millionaire Promoting Event With Cobham

LONDON, June 1.—Sir Alan Cobham announced last night that I. W. Schlesinger, South African millionaire, has given £10,000 ($50,000) prize money for the proposed air race from England to South Africa to coincide with the British Empire Exhibition at Johannesburg.

Schlesinger is promoting the race with Cobham, himself a pioneer long-distance flier, as consultant. The Johannesburg Exhibition opens Sept. 15 and will run until Jan. 15, 1937.

MINISTRY APPROVES

The air race proposal has the approval of the British air ministry and the South African government has promised every assistance.

Entire organization of the race will be undertaken by the Royal Aero club of Great Britain and participation will be limited to British Empire pilots and aircraft. In this respect it will differ from the London-to-Melbourne race of 1934 which was open to all-comers.

FURTHER AIR INTEREST

Cobham said Schlesinger's motive in arranging the event was the promotion of commercial aircraft and the furtherance of air interest on the part of citizens of the British empire. But chiefly, he said, the race was intended to focus attention on the Johannesburg exhibition.

Cobham added the race would show that the day was not far distant when it will be possible to spend a week-end in Johannesburg. Possibly, he predicted, the flight will be accomplished in two days.

SOVIET TESTS LUXURY TRAIN

By JOHN LLOYD

Associated Press Foreign Staff

MOSCOW, June 1.—A Soviet boudoir train which makes the luxury trains of other European countries look like stagecoaches was on an experimental run Sunday to Sochi, summer resort in the Crimea.

The least of its appointments is a barber shop—capitalistic trains have those. It also carries a nursery car with toys, complete bath compartments, individual radios and a train crew dressed in the manner of hotel doormen.

Passengers may rent pyjamas and slippers aboard the train in order to travel in all the comfort of their own boudoirs. Each of the chairs can be separated from the others by curtains, providing perfect solitude for those who like it.

Women may obtain needles, thread, and yarns with which to while away the time, merely for the asking.

A tailor shop is ready for business at all hours so no one need arrive at the end of the journey in wrinkled or soiled clothing.

Demand Apology

LONDON, June 1.—The foreign office will demand an official apology from the Italian government for the arrest and alleged humiliation of an imperial Airways pilot, the Daily Herald stated today.

Community Leagues

EASTWOOD

Business meeting of Eastwood and District Community League is called for Monday evening, it is announced.

At a recent card party given in the community hall, prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. W. Dixon, Mrs. Innes, Mrs. Nield, Mr. A. Pringle, Mr. R. Strong, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Sproule, Mr. J. Drew and Mr. W. P. Dunn.

The league also plans to entertain at cards and dancing on Friday evening.

Peace Farmers Are Jubilant At Crop Prospects

PEACE RIVER, June 1.—Feature of the past week was the extreme heat that held the country sweltering from 88 to 95 degrees broken by an electrical storm that carried only a shower of rain but as moisture was not required the crop condition got away to an exceptional start with vegetation of all kinds fairly leaping out of the ground. Farmers are jubilant at the rapid growth that more than offset late seeding and there is every reason to believe that wheat will be in the head before the first of July. On the other hand mosquitoes and sand flies are the worst in years with townspeople making a run on cheese cloth and mosquito bar in order to get a night's sleep.

MAYOR SOLID FOR SLASH IN BOND CHARGES

Any action taken by the federal or provincial governments to reduce interest rates on the bonded indebtedness would ultimately benefit the municipal taxpayer and I am solidly behind any move in this direction," Mayor Jos. A. Clarke, K.C., declared Monday when commenting on Alberta's decision to reduce rates an average of 50 per cent., effective from July 1.

"One third of our tax money goes to meet interest charges, any reduction of which will help the municipal taxpayer," he added.

The province's decision to lower the rates will result in a $32,000 loss to the city and public school board which have Alberta bonds in their sinking funds. As the province holds two of these issues totalling the amount of $1,000,000, commissioners announced recently they were considering the possibility of getting the province's consent to a deduction in interest paid the government by the city on these bonds to balance the loss being taken by the city.

BLUM TO LEAD POPULAR FRONT

PARIS, June 1.—In a speech at the Socialist National Congress last night, Leon Blum, who is also certain to be Premier, declared he would lead "not a pure Socialist government," but a government of the Popular Front.

"The reactionary press," he said, "compares me to Kerensky making his bed with Lenin. I hope the government which the French Socialist party is leading will not be a Kerensky government, but if it is, they may rest assured that France has no Lenin to succeed it."

(Alexander Kerensky, Russian Socialist leader, was premier during part of 1917, but was unable to withstand the opposition of the Bolsheviki. Nikolai Lenin, succeeded him.)

LAST FUGITIVE IS RECAPTURED

BRANDON, Man., June 1.—Last fugitive of four prisoners who escaped from Brandon jail a week ago, Frank Macdonald, 22, was captured by Royal Canadian Mounted Police Sunday between Portage La Prairie and Treherne, 70 miles east of here.

MacDonald was driving an automobile alleged to have been stolen at Carberry, Man. He will be brought here for trial on charges of jail-breaking and automobile theft.

New Bond Issue

OTTAWA, June 1.—Books will open Wednesday for a new issue of Dominion of Canada bonds, involving approximately $207,871,200. The money will be used to convert three issues maturing this fall to the extent of $187,871,500. The remaining portion will be offered for cash subscription in a new issue.

WOUND FATAL TO M'MULLEN, RYAN GUNMAN

Canadian gunman before allowing him to enter the United States. He lived two days after the border shooting.

HAD SLIM CHANCE

Dr. Kelton had said he believed McMullen would live. "He's the acme of physical perfection, so far above the average man that he will survive," he said, although he will never be well."

"Death came approximately 48 hours after McMullen shot Flachs with one of the two automatic pistols he carried when he stepped off to enter this country. He fired five of the 300 rounds of ammunition, one entering the heart of the immigration inspector and one, aimed at a second officer who tackled him from behind, piercing his own heart.

NO PLANS MADE

Coroner Otto H. Mittelstadt took charge of the body but he said no plans had been made yet for an inquest. The case was in the hands of federal authorities who held the murder charge against McMullen.

Six Lives Lost In Ryan Case

By the Canadian Press

Operations of the gang of Norman "Red" Ryan, whose chief played the part of reformer and lived as a criminal, have cost six lives.

Three of the mob that pulled triggers in terror when cornered are dead. Three others who defended right and duty wrote their part in heroes' records.

KILLED AT SARNIA

Ryan, leader of the mob that formed about him when freed on ticket-of-leave from penitentiary, was killed during a hold-up in Sarnia a week ago Saturday.

Harry Checkley, who tried to pull the job with his chief, fell before police bullets.

Edward McMullen, hunted for murder, died Saturday at Seattle. A bullet from his own gun ploughed into his body when he fired over his shoulder at an immigration officer.

Constable John Lewis, of Sarnia, was killed by Ryan when Lewis and two other officers thwarted the liquor smuggler.

Charles Flachs, United States immigration officer at Blaine, Wash., was killed by McMullen when he halted the desperado at the international border.

Councillor E. C. Stonehouse, of Markham, near Toronto, refused to let gunmen steal his car Feb. 29. He fought them and died before McMullen's gun. Police say Ryan and Checkley made up the trio.

BOWMAN AGAIN CHAMP COWBOY

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 1.—Everett Bowman of Phoenix, Ariz., world champion all-around cowboy last year, won the steer wrestling contest at the annual Long Beach rodeo here yesterday.

Alvin Gordon of Salinas, Calif., won the saddle broncho riding and Jackie Snyder of Calgary, Alberta, won the bareback broncho riding. Canada Kid of Calgary, introduced as the world champion steer roper, won the steer riding contest, with Snyder second.

Former Vancouver Man Dies In East

MONTREAL, June 1.—Douglas H. Macaulay, Toronto, manager of the marine department of the Aetna Insurance Company of Canada, died here Sunday. He was taken ill last Tuesday while on a business trip to this city.

Mr. Macaulay was widely known in insurance circles. He was born and educated in Vancouver, and was in his 35th year.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Joan and Douglas; one sister, Mrs. Jack Norris, and two brothers, Donald and Jack Macaulay, all of Vancouver.

The body of a full-grown elephant contains about 70 gallons of pure oil.

GEOLOGISTS ON WAY TO NORTH MINING FIELDS

Jolliffe, Henderson and Assistants Will Leave Here Tuesday Morning

The federal government's geological "crackmen" of northland mineral lodes, Dr. Fred Jolliffe and Dr. J. F. Henderson, both of Ottawa, reached Edmonton Monday to organize their summer surveying parties. They are at the Macdonald.

Dr. Jolliffe, with two Edmonton boys and Dr. Henderson with five Edmontonians and two students from Saskatoon in tow, will leave over Northern Alberta railway lines Tuesday.

SMITH HEADQUARTERS

Headquarters for the parties will be established at Fort Smith, from where both outfits will operate by airplane.

Dr. Jolliffe's men will spend the summer in detailed examination of the mining fields from Lake Athabaska to Great Bear, while Dr. Henderson's party will map 10,000 square miles of wilderness southeast of Great Slave Lake.

The geology of this region is unknown except for a narrow strip mapped along the Taltson river by Deputy Minister of Mines, Dr. Charles Camsell in 1914. Dr. Camsell's exploration indicated outcroppings of greenstone and sediments favorable to the location of mineral deposits and Dr. Henderson's men will trace the extension of these belts and locate and map other similar areas.

TOLTSON STRIKE

A recent gold strike made east of the Taltson river will occupy much attention of the geological surveyors.

Well-known in the west and north, Dr. Jolliffe last year headed a party of 16 which examined an area of 10,000 miles around the Yellowknife river basin north of Great Slave.

Last year Dr. Jolliffe's party was Neil Campbell and Norman Jennings. Wm. Dr. Henderson on A. J. Buchan, W. Jack Sparrow, John Ross, Donald Allen, all of the University of Alberta, and D. S. Coryeiau and J. F. Tibbett of the University of Saskatchewan.

VISITING CLERICS PREACH SERMONS LOCAL CHURCHES

Dr. Peter Bryce, visiting minister from Toronto to the United Church conference in session last week, preached sermons and evening address at Robertson United church.

Dr. Bryce was among the 21 members attending the conference who were guest speakers at city churches during the week-end. At the morning service at Robertson church Dr. R. B. Cochrane gave the address while Dr. Thomas Powell, prominent Edmonton Presbyterian, spoke at McDougall church. Rev. Duncan McLeod, from Formosa, gave the sermon at Strathcona and Knox church and conducted a Gaelic service during the afternoon in Knox church.

Dr. Bryce, in his address, made a plea for wider support of the place of the church in Canadian life.

"The Church of Christ is the greatest agency for the good of man and the widest international brotherhood in the world," he said. "We must not let its influence die in this country. Its scope must continue to be raised against anything that destroys or denies the value of human life."

Dr. Cochrane also emphasized the necessity of strengthening the position of the church in western Canadian life. "The world," he said, "has been built up on the trials and sacrifices of early missionaries and that sacrifice must go on in the interests of providing a greater Canada yet."

ENUMERATORS BEGIN TAKING FIVE-YEAR CENSUS

USE AIRPLANES, PACK TRAINS IN OUTLYING AREAS

Thousands of Workers Have Been Subjected To Practical Tests to Fit Them For Enormous Task.

OTTAWA, June 1.—More than 3,500 enumerators, including Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Indian agents, will begin taking the five-yearly census in the prairie provinces today.

Airplanes and pack trains will be called into service for census-takers in out-of-the-way districts. No section of the country will escape enumeration by the thousands of workers who have been subjected to practical tests before appointment.

TWO TO FOUR WEEKS

It is expected from two to four weeks will suffice in normal localities for the completion of the field work, and in two months' time it is expected it will be possible to give out the results from many cities and towns. In three months the complete survey should be available.

From the present census it is hoped to obtain new information relative to unemployment, health, education, finance and agriculture. A space on the cards devoted in previous census takings to the religion of the individual is now given to "the country of allegiance."

SPECIAL SPACE

Special space is devoted to the number of years of schooling of the individual and whether he can read or write.

This census is also designed to afford a thorough survey of agriculture. Field crops, livestock, clairying, fruit and vegetable growing will be brought under comprehensive review.

When the cards are complete they will come under the attention of the dominion bureau of statistics where new adding machines rapidly tabulate the various items as the cards go through, then photograph the totals.

CALGARY HEAT WAVE BROKEN

CALGARY, June 1.—A six-day heat wave in the Calgary district ended early Sunday when an electrical storm rolled in from the northwest followed by a drenching rain.

Intense heat, however, continued in other parts of the province and there was little relief from the blistering sun. Seeking relief from the heat, Mrs. Hans Jensen, 54, of Redcliffe, fell victim to the South Saskatchewan river, near Medicine Hat. Plunging into the cold, treacherous waters, she succumbed to a heart attack late Saturday.

ZIONCHECK IN JAIL 2 HOURS

WASHINGTON, June 1.—In a subdued mood, Representative Zioncheck of Seattle returned to his apartment before dawn Sunday after spending two hours in jail and most of the night dodging reporters.

He refused to comment on his arrest for disorderly conduct Saturday night when he hurled bottles, a typewriter, and a suitcase full of his bride's clothes out of his apartment window. He posted $25 bond.

Mrs. Zioncheck left the apartment for a "rest" and had not returned Sunday.

Descendant Of Lord Selkirk Settlers Dies In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, June 1.—William C. Pritchard, 83, a native son of Manitoba and descendant of the Lord Selkirk settlers, died here Saturday.

Born in Kildonan, now a suburb of Winnipeg, Mr. Pritchard in his early days visited many parts of the west. He was a strong advocate of the railway to Churchill, Manitoba's northern seaport.

He is survived by his widow, four sons and three daughters.

Quebec Cardinal Visits Moose Jaw

MOOSE JAW, June 1.—His Eminence, J. M. Cardinal Villeneuve, Quebec, spent two hours in Moose Jaw Saturday evening while en route to Gravelbourg where he was at one time bishop.

A part of the Cardinal's brief visit was spent visiting the sick at the Providence hospital.

Before attending an informal dinner held at Catholic hospital Cardinal Villeneuve toured the building, received sisters serving at the hospital and visited many patients. Cardinal Villeneuve arrived in Moose Jaw with a party of 12, driving from Regina to Gravelbourg.

The Mount Rushmore memorial carving in the Black Hills of South Dakota is being done mostly by blasting. This method is used down to within an inch of the finished surface.

Will Sonja Make Good?

SONJA HENIE

PRETTY SKATER MAY BE DOGGED BY MOVIE JINX

Other Men and Women Athletes Had Short-lived Stay in Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, June 1—Muscles don't make the movie star. Film producers have learned, and it's a matter of grave concern to Sonja Henie, an athletic heroine with a screen contract.

Miss Henie, pretty Norwegian girl, is the Olympic fancy skater of the world. After the last winter Olympic games she turned professional and came to Hollywood. Now she is enrolled as a contract player.

And Hollywood wonders if the same jinx that dogged other men and women who rode into the movies on the strength of sport page reputations will overtake her.

DOING WESTERNS

Johnny Mack Brown, the Alabama football player, and Nuck Lukais, who carried the ball for Notre Dame, are doing "Westerns." Johnny Weismuller, the Illinois swimmer, is occasionally sent into the tree-tops to thump his chest and show his teeth as "Tarzan." Buster Crabbe, of Oakland, Olympic aquatic champion, is doing he-man roles on and off a horse.

But the pretty Eleanor Holm, now Mrs. Arthur Jarrett, had a short-lived stay in pictures. So did Helene Madison, of Seattle. Both are celebrated swimmers.

Max Baer's "Prizefighter and the Lady," was a financial headache.

HEROIC RESCUE ATTEMPT FAILS

BETHUNE, Sask., June 1.—Wading into six feet of water in a slough near his home Saturday in answer to calls for help, 70-year-old William Anderson, Gladstone district farmer, risked his life in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue 10-year-old Collin Rosie from drowning.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rosie, farmer of the Gladstone district, drowned when he went in swimming with 30 or 40 other youngsters. They had been watching a ball game.

Mr. Anderson's son, William, seeding in a nearby field, also heard the lad's cries for help, waded into the water and brought the body out.

Pilot's Skill Averts Crash 15 Passengers

CHICAGO, June 1.—A pilot's skill was credited today with averting a tragic crash when a huge airliner, gliding down to a forced landing, plunged into a house and thudded into a narrow vacant lot on the south side.

The 15 persons on board the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines plane, nosing through the night at the end of a non-stop flight from New York, escaped death and serious injury. All were bruised and shaken. Six remained in a hospital.

The 12 passengers praised the manoeuvreing of Pilot W. L. Smith of Cranford, N.J., and the efforts of Stewardess Grace Davidson of Pittsburgh who assisted some of her stunned charges from the cabin despite a painful cut on the head and a wrenched neck.

Railroader Dies

CALGARY, June 1—Dave Patrick Clark, 65, a railway engineer who formerly worked out of Kenora, Ont., Winnipeg and Brandon, Man., died here Sunday. He was retired on pension and moved here last January. Mr. Clark was born in Montreal.

ANN HARDING NOT WORRYING OVER CHARGES

Declares She Was Given Full Custody of Young Daughter

By W. RUPERT DAVIES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ON BOARD S.S. DUCHESS OF ATHOLL, June 1.—Ann Harding, glamorous screen star enroute to England with her eight-year-old daughter Jane, Sunday refused to take seriously the news her former husband, Harry Bannister, had sworn out a warrant at Quebec City charging her with abduction.

"I am not worrying over any action Harry Bannister may take," she said. "I have documents giving me full custody of Jane.

"I secured sole custody of my child from courts in Nevada, where the divorce was granted in 1932," said Miss Harding. "Also I obtained full consent of the California courts to bring Jane on my present business trip to England."

HAS NO RIGHTS

Miss Harding said Bannister now has no rights so far as he could is concerned other than occasional visits in the presence of a nurse and guardian.

The actress is under contract to start a new picture in England June 8. She said she intended sailing from Quebec Saturday on the Empress of Australia but her attorney advised her that Bannister might be able to delay her departure by technicalities.

For that reason, Miss Harding said, she boarded the Duchess of Atholl Friday night from a tender as it slipped past Quebec, bound for England from Montreal.

Bannister Back In New York

NEW YORK, June 1—Harry Bannister returned Saturday night from his futile attempt to hurdle legal barriers in Quebec in an effort to obtain custody of his seven-year-old daughter, Jane, from Ann Harding, his divorced wife.

Miss Harding and a battery of five lawyers outwitted Bannister, slipping out to sea England-bound with the child.

Bannister and his attorney, unable to find her after swearing to an abduction warrant, returned here by plane, voicing uncertainty about their next step.

On landing at Roosevelt Field, Bannister said all he sought now was a written statement from Miss Harding that he could have custody of their daughter three weeks later in December.

FOUR MORE DIE IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, June 1—Police said last night they had unearthed a collection of posters in hand-painted Italian declaring all Jews are "communists and enemies of Europe and Christianity" after renewed disorders had cost four more lives.

Three Arabs, one a woman, were killed by police fire at Jaffa. A German Jew was slain in Jerusalem.

An Arab committee in charge of the general strike called April 19 issued a manifesto deprecating the use of violence.

The 27th Jewish victim of the unrest was shot to death in the Jewish quarter here. He was Franz Bordshadt, 43, a recent settler from Germany.

SAFE ROBBERS GET $1,800

WINNIPEG, June 1.—Yeggmen and armed bandits stole more than $1,800 Sunday in a safe robbery and two holdups in various sections of Winnipeg. The largest haul was obtained at Ralph's Clothing store on Main street where safecrackers took $1,500, of which $1,300 was in cash. George Rieck was held up and robbed of $247 in cash while pulling his automobile in his garage on College avenue and John Mitchell was held up and robbed of $14 by a lone bandit on Mountain avenue.

NEGUS SAILS FOR ENGLAND

GIBRALTAR, June 1.—Emperor Haile Selassie, in his own words "feeling much better," sailed Sunday for England.

Before boarding the liner Ordred the Emperor said: "While not feeling what you might call good, I feel much better than when I landed."

PARIS, June 1.—Emperor Haile Selassie will be in Geneva for the League Council meeting June 15, a spokesman for the Ethiopian legation said today, but only as an onlooker.

Professors Payless

MONTREAL, June 1—L'Universite de Montreal employees and professors ended their third payless month Saturday. They have been without financial remuneration for their services since the end of February. Financial resources of the university were dried out and payment of salaries might be delayed beyond the customary date, the professors were told.

Schuschnigg and Troops That Made Him Supreme

Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, with hand raised in salute, is pictured reviewing a guard of honor of the Catholic workers' organization, the Freiheitsbund (Liberty League), in Vienna recently. The reene was made in the Heldenplatz, and, at about the time that it was snapped disorders were occurring in another section of the city in which Heimwehr and members of the Freiheitsbund fought each other. The clash of the Freiheitsbund, Schuschnigg's "army," with the Heimwehr, Vice-Chancellor Von Starhemberg's supporters, precipitated the crisis that resulted in the ousting of Von Starhemberg from his position.

CRITICISM BY MAJ. DOUGLAS IRKS PREMIER

little Major Douglas knew of the conditions at the time and how impossible he was to give sound advice at such a distance.

"I do not wish to take time in any dogmatic discussion with Major Douglas at this time.

PROOF OF PUDDING

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating, not in the recipe. I feel that we are too busy to be bothered by the criticisms of those who will not lend a hand in the slightest degree in delivering our people from the economic slavery in which they find themselves.

"The present moment calls for sincere action—not intoxicated discussion."

Asked to comment on some criticisms levelled at him from an organization of Douglasites in Calgary, the Premier said that "I received a letter which these Douglasites released in Calgary and made public and I may say I have been continually perplexed as to how a single individual or else two or three persons should call themselves a Douglas Association. Their remarks in the letter sent to me indicates they are not Social Crediters at all. Evidently they are not able to detect the application of Social Credit principles in the economic realm of the state."

This letter appeared in public on Wednesday and criticized the Premier for not carrying out Douglas theories. The Premier's suggestion is that the organization referred to consists either of one person or a very small group.

Daily Talks With God Objective Of Oxford Groupers

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass., June 1.—Daily talks with God and obedience to his messages are chief objectives of the Oxford Group, a veteran leader, John McCook Roots, declared Sunday.

Vancouver people here have invited representation of the international team. Oxford Group, to share in Vancouver's Golden Jubilee celebration.

The group, now holding its first American assembly in the picturesque Berkshire Hills, marks, he said, the beginning on a big scale of a movement which its members hope will sweep the country.

Home Oil Will Pay Dividends

VANCOUVER, June 1.—A proposal to pay dividends this year was endorsed by directors of Home Oil Company Ltd., at the annual meeting here Saturday. The dividends would be started on a moderate scale and increased when earnings warranted. They also approved a proposal to extend drilling to new areas in Alberta.

Two Unemployed Men Are Drowned

KINGSTON, Ont., June 1.—Two unemployed men lost their lives by drowning in Kingston harbor early Sunday and a third swam 200 yards to reach shore safely.

Robert Watts fell from a light boat in which the three were rowing and when Roger Lefevre went to his rescue, both were drowned. The boat overturned during the unsuccessful rescue attempt and William Ewart managed to swim ashore.

Auto Accidents Take 118 Lives In United States

NEW YORK, June 1.—Automobile accidents took at least 118 lives throughout the United States during the Memorial Day week-end.

The heaviest loss of life reported in a single accident over the week-end was near Richmond, Va., where six were killed when a light sedan crashed into the rear of a loaded lumber truck. All of the victims were under 21.

In summer, the Washington Monument is a half inch taller than it is in winter.

FLOODS CLAIM SEVEN LIVES

GRANADA, Colo., June 1.—Seven deaths caused by rain-flooded streams were counted Sunday in Colorado and Kansas.

The latest victims were four occupants of a farmhouse near Springfield, Colo., in the southwestly once-denominated "Dust Bowl." There the waters of Butte Creek drowned Simon Gonzales, 30, his wife, their three-year-old daughter, and John Grazie, 65. Three others from various sections of the state met death.

STRATOSPHERE PLANES LIKELY WITHIN 5 YEARS

SANTA MONICA, Calif. June 1—Construction within four years of giant air transports with a cruising radius of 10,000 miles is predicted by George Strompl, factory superintendent of the Douglas Aircraft Company here.

He also foresees the completion within five years of a stratosphere airplane capable of flying from New York to Paris in six hours.

20TH CENTURY LIBERAL CLUB CLOSES RALLY

Hon. J. L. Ilsley Reviews Progress Made by Federal Government

OTTAWA, June 1.—After what was regarded as a successful convention members of the Twentieth Century Liberal Association were on their way home today.

The convention closed late Saturday with a review of the government's accomplishments in alleviation of unemployment and stimulation of external trade, by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of national revenue.

CONSIDERABLE PROGRESS

Mr. Ilsley informed the convention the government had made considerable progress in dealing with unemployment. He cited appointment of a national commission. "We are very proud of its personnel," he stated in expressing belief the new commission would go far in reaching a solution of the unemployment problem.

"The Canada-United States trade agreement is one of the most important negotiated in modern times," the revenue minister said. People generally did not realize how far-reaching this agreement was, he felt. Not only did it provide for the actual concessions stipulated, but the fact each country accorded most favored nation treatment to the other meant a widening of the field.

19 RESOLUTIONS

The convention at its final meeting dealt with 19 resolutions on varying subjects. Implementation of the report recently made by the commons special committee on radio at the present session of parliament was urged in one moved by Odette Lapointe, honorary vice president and adopted unanimously. Another urged Canada should have power to amend her own constitution.

Fugitive Convict Dies In Gunfight

BATON ROUGE, La., June 1.—Wilfred Lindsly, 23-year-old fugitive convict sought five days for the slaying of a prison penitentiary official and his wife, died Sunday in a gun battle with a 12-man posse.

After an investigation, the coroner said Lindsly committed suicide with his last bullet. One member of the posse was shot in the leg.

Lindsly, who escaped from the state prison farm after killing Capt. Nelson L. Himel and Mrs. Himel last Wednesday, was trapped in a wooded section near the farm.

BEAUTY. POWER. LUXURY

EVERY FIFTH MILE IS FREE! with CHRYSLER OVER-DRIVE TRANSMISSION

LUXURY and the budget are again on speaking terms! Look at that stunning Chrysler Eight taking that steep grade with effortless ease. Imagine owning such a car for little more than the cost of ordinary transportation.

To its other tested economy features Chrysler has added Automatic Overdrive Transmission — standard on all Chrysler Airflow models and available at slight additional cost on Chrysler Airstream models, Sixes and Eights.

Overdrive Transmission is an additional, higher gear that goes into action automatically at a lift of your toe, when highway speed is reached. Engine speed drops one-third while car speed remains the same. Gasoline and oil consumption is reduced by twenty per cent. Every fifth mile you drive at highway speed is free! You can actually travel 100 miles in overdrive at the cost of 80 miles in conventional gear. Here is economy that places luxury in the realm of the practical.

But economy is not the only good feature about Chrysler Automatic Overdrive Transmission. You'll thrill to the almost unbelievable sense of rest and relaxation when this higher gear "cuts in".

We cordially invite you to come in and drive a 1936 Chrysler equipped with Overdrive. Learn for yourself how surprisingly luxurious, thrilling and economical motoring can really be.

Be sure to ask about the Chrysler Motors-Commercial Credit Corporation 7% Time Payment Plan. It's an easy and more economical way to arrange time payments to fit your income.

WHO STANDS THE LOSS?

The arbitrary reduction of provincial bond rates means a loss to Edmonton of $24,000 a year, city sinking funds having been invested in provincial securities. What the province saves in respect of these bonds the taxpayers of the city will have to make up—

Unless the city also refunds, and thereby passes the loss along to its creditors in turn. Or unless the Government is prepared to make some special concessions to cities in consideration of their financial difficulties.

Since nothing has been done toward refunding Edmonton's debt, the other alternative is the only one of practical interest at the moment. If the provincial taxpayers cannot afford to pay this $24,000 the city taxpayers are certainly no better able to pay it.

Council has therefore good ground on which to approach the Government for a concession in some direction or other which would balance the score. The sense of their own inability to pay should make the Ministers sensible of the inability of the city to "absorb" the loss.

ANOTHER REPUDIATION

Members of the Douglas Social Credit Association have taken timely and appropriate means to make plain they are in no way responsible for the Aberhart Government and its Magor policy of increased taxation and higher consumer prices.

In a letter to the Premier, the Association calls his attention to the fact that he was elected to "abolish poverty in Alberta," that instead of doing this he has introduced an era of "taxation, higher prices and reduced purchasing power," adding "nor is there any indication" that the election promise will be carried out.

Further, the Association "Register our protest against any Government claiming to be Social Credit, laying additional burdens upon the people and call upon the Premier to prove his claim to the title by "lowering taxes," and "an immediate reduction in prices."

The plain and essential meaning of which is that Magorism is not Social Credit and the Government is travelling under false colors. The Premier and his colleagues now know what repudiation looks like from the standpoint of the party who is hit.

THE ALBERTA CROP

Officials at the Dominion entomological station at Lethbridge have issued a map showing where the grasshopper danger is going to get in his deadly work this year. The notably infested area runs in a belt from seventy to ninety miles wide, L-shaped, from near the international boundary to a point north of Calgary, just touching that city on the east side, then turning east to the boundary of Saskatchewan.

Most of this area is shown to be lightly infested, but there are fairly numerous and extensive blotches of red, indicating bad infestation. In the central and northern sections of the province no danger spots are charted.

The cutworm has also made its appearance in the southern districts and is working destruction on a scale to give some cause for alarm.

With late seeding in the flooded areas in central and northern Alberta, the crop for 1936 is not getting away to a very good start. There is nothing new in this however, and no reason to apprehend another year like the last. It is the ending, not the beginning that counts, and the Alberta crop has made some remarkable endings from beginnings less promising generally than the present.

A LONG SENTENCE

Chiefs of the Fascist party held a conference at Rome, according to despatches, in which they decided upon measures to make "permanent and irrevocable" the exclusion of products from those countries which are participating in maltaining sanctions.

Remembering that the sanctions were imposed by fifty odd countries against Italy, and not by Italy against them, there is an element of humour in this threat to perpetuate the disabilities resulting therefrom.

The case is parallel to that of a gentleman who, having been put on the blacklist for shady transactions, declares that he will get even with his accusers by refusing to ever again have dealings with them.

What is thereby made clear is that the sanctions are having an adverse reaction upon economic affairs in Italy, that the Fascist chiefs are worrying, that they are anxious to have the barriers lifted, but that they do not choose to square their conduct with the law for violation of which the punishment was imposed.

Wherefore they proclaim that the people of Italy are to be held in perpetual commercial isolation. That the people of Italy will submit indefinitely to being thus penalized by the Fascist chiefs remains to be seen.

THE END OF THE ROAD

"Red" Ryan ended his career of crime in a way to leave only one regret, that a policeman had to be murdered before he was shot down. His companion was evidently as useless as himself, and the world is well rid of him.

Ryan was on parole when he staged his last hold-up, a parole won by exemplary conduct while in prison. A necessary effect will be to make the authorities less ready to accept professions of reform on the part of prisoners who have shown they could not safely be left at large.

One failure, conspicuous as it is, does not condemn the parole system. But it will make that system more difficult to operate with due regard to the protection of the public. If prisoners find it less easy to get out on parole hereafter, they will have to blame Ryan for that, for none of them can hope to make a more convincing demonstration than he did of "turning over a new leaf."

All that remains now is for the sobsters to chant their farewell; in the well-known terms of condemnation of our "inhuman" prison system for not having made Ryan the saint he professed to be—or of our civilization for making such a monster out of a really well-meaning chap who just "went astray" for some reason or other.

W. B. Young, better known as "Pete" to at Banff Hot Springs, not for the good of his health only, however. A number of years ago when Pete first struck this wild west he spent a winter or two hunting in the mountains west of Morley, up the Bow River Pass, then considered to be a long distance back of nowhere and erected a shanty to live in. The stories Pete had to tell about his experiences of those winters and the amount of geographical, topographical, mineralogical and other information that would exude from him during the telling were simply marvelous, and were recognized by an incredulous and apathetic public as "guff." Not the least wonderful or least frequently mentioned feature of Pete's camp stories was how bountifully impregnated as he alleged with magnesia and sulphur upon the virtues of which he used to dilate to an immense extent, but the aforesaid public was individually and collectively too sharp to take any stock in Pete or his yarns, preferring rather people out west—so the springs were left to waste their sweetness on the desert air and Pete himself advised to quit talking about them and give the public a rest. In process of time the C.P.R. was built through the Bow River Pass, the springs were rediscovered and the right sold to D. B. Woodworth, M.P. By some means the matter got into a snarl so that he could neither hold nor realize. At this juncture Pete appears on the scene—has been given up a lucrative position as a pounder of cayuses for Donald McLeod—takes possession of his old shanty and asserts his right as original discoverer of property worth thousands and perhaps millions; however may ultimately get the springs Pete has the best right to them.

Poems That Live

THE VINE

The wine of Love is music,
And the feast of Love is song:
And when Love sits down to the banquet,
Love sits long:

Sits long and arises drunken,
But not with the feast and the wine;
He reeleth with his own heart,
That great, rich Vine.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Some of the athletic associations on this continent have been worrying whether to admit minister a rebuke to Herr Hitler by refusing to take part in the Olympic Games at Berlin.

When Hitler sees some of the teams, the shoe will be on the other foot. There may be few Jews on the teams, but there will be no lack of negroes.

J. S. Cowper

Paul Robeson, famous colored singer and actor — you remember him in "Sanders of the River"—finds the absence of the color line in Soviet Rusfia so pleasant that he says he would like to live in the U.S.S.R. instead of U.S.A.

Germany will never forget the genial impulse that led France to place colored troops in the army of occupation. Saved she had been from the ruthless destruction of invasion, but the presence of the black soldiers seemed like a deliberate humiliation. Negroes have fared even worse dis-esteem in Nazi opinion than have the Jews.

Just as the colored branch of the American people boss the heavyweight and several other divisions in the pugilistic world in America, so too, they boss several divisions in amateur track and field events. A dark cloud must be gathering over Berlin at thought of the dusky invasion.

There'll be Jesse Owens, the Ohio State flash who broke records at 100 and 220 metres last year, and who is good for 27 feet in the broad jump. Ralph Metcalf of Marquette University, who showed Eddie Tolan (also colored) home in the 100 metre title race in 1932, is also sure of a place on the team, as is Eustace Peacock of Temple University, who has beaten Owens in a sprint and is a great broad jumper.

Eddie Burke, colored high jumper from Marquette has cleared six feet nine inches. His nearest rival is Cornelius Johnson of California, also colored. They are likely to sail nearer Heaven than any of the "po' white trash."

Canada has two "dark horses" of African descent in Sammy Richardson, the great broad jumper of Toronto, and Phil Edwards of McGill, who finished third in the final for the 800 metre run at Los Angeles in 1932, and who is a strong prospect to win the race this year. Phil graduates from McGill this year in medicine, after which he may return to his native British Guiana.

Our colored brothers are supposed to have an advantage in running by reason of a short Achilles tendon, enabling them to get started quicker and to keep going faster than we who have a longer tendon. I don't know what it is in their fists that enables Joe Louis and John Henry Lewis who conquered McAvoy, to fight faster.

There's a pride of race that colored men have. I came across it fifteen years ago when visiting Treadwell Yarden mine and writing the mining history of the Alice Arm and Kitsault Canyon district.

The Swede who discovered the Dolly Varden told me that there was a colored prospector who knew more of the district than he. This other man was the first prospector to enter the Kitsault region when it was in the hands of the Kitsault Indians.

I hunted this son of Ham up and he proved a mine of information. By way of compliment, at the end of the interview I said, "I understand you were the first prospector to come here."

With a gleam of pride (or was it humor), he made answer haughtily: "Yas, sar," he said, "ah was de fust wite man to come into dees parts."

Your Kidneys

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

The kidneys might be called the housekeepers of the body. You who are home-makers know that if you neglect your cleaning for even a short time that the home begins to appear neglected and dirt and dust begin to show. In order to keep your home absolutely spotless, you must keep everything in the same way that you must be constantly cleaning, constantly removing grime, so the kidneys are even more constantly purifying the blood—making it more pure by removing from it materials which are useless.

However, there is this difference between your work and the work done by the kidneys; you must go after dirt, must move all over the house to find it, whereas the kidneys stay in one place and have the impurities brought to them by the blood. Waste materials which are formed in the cells of the body are picked up by the blood and transported to the kidneys, which filter out the waste and pass it to be thrown away. There is another difference also, for whereas you take some time off for sleeping, your kidneys must work unceasingly and, in fact, go on working every moment of the day and night.

If your kidneys suddenly stopped work, it it has been estimated that you would have but four hours left to live. That will give you some idea of the importance of the kidney function.

I wonder if you have ever stopped to think of it in just this way—that while you are working as hard to clean your home, your kidneys are, at the same time, also working to cleanse the physical structure which is your most important dwelling place?

Kidneys are two bean-shaped organs fastened to the back wall of the abdominal cavity, on either side of the spinal column, just in front of the lowest ribs, with the right kidney a little lower than the left one. The normal kidney is firm, hard and elastic, is about four inches long, about 2½ inches broad, about 1½ inches thick and weighs about 4½ ounces. Although the kidneys appear to be separate organs, in reality they work as one, and, like twins, one seems to know instinctively what is happening to the other. For example, if one kidney is removed, the other one then enlarges. While one kidney is well able to take care of the normal needs of the body, two are provided as a safety factor. Ordinarily, the two kidneys do much more than they could do, which explains why, when one is removed, the patient will get along just as well as when he has two.

The part of the body which does the active work of elimination is made up of many small tubes and there are said to be a million of these little tubes in one kidney. The fact of the matter is that you are alive today shows that these very small tubes, hidden down in the dark and warmth of the inside of your body, have been efficiently and unfailingly protecting your life, and are still protecting it.

Many people have a mistaken idea of the location of the kidneys, believing them to be located much lower down than they actually are. In reality, the kidneys are placed rather high in the abdominal cavity and it will stop to remember that the tube leading away from the kidney, called the ureter, is from 14 to 16 inches in length, you will see that the kidneys must be placed some distance away from the pelvic floor to require a tube this long. Each kidney has its own ureter, leading to the bladder, and as waste material is formed by the kidney, it escapes down this tube at the rate of a drop every minute. In the course of a day about one quart and a half of liquid is eliminated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. M. E. Q. writes: "Please let me know which are the mucous-forming foods. Would like the complete list if possible. Is the excess discharge of mucus as occurring from the intestines and from the nose and throat due to food in any way? Also is there any danger of contracting amoebic dysentery from eating vegetables that have been washed such as the raw salad vegetables?"

ANSWER: Those foods which may be considered mucous-forming would make quite a long list and in a space as short as this I do not have room to give you the list. Starchy foods are likely to bring about an excessive discharge of mucus in those patients who do not metabolize starches and sugars efficiently; in other words, those having a tendency to catarrhal disturbances. If such foods are metabolized efficiently, they may serve to produce an increase in weight. Those foods which contain a large amount of starch, such as everything made from flour, are the most mucous-forming, and also all kinds of sugar food may be said to be mucous-forming. When the patient notices an excessive discharge of mucus from the intestine this is evidence of either colitis or of an irritable intestine. The colon is irritated by the presence of raw fibre and by the abnormal secretion of mucus from the membrane which lines this organ. The irritation is the primary cause, but when such an excess of mucus exists it will usually be found that the patient has been using an abundance of starchy food. In most cases, considerable time is required to entirely overcome colitis and the patient can not hope for a quick cure. You need not fear the development of amoebic dysentery from the use of raw foods. All raw food should be washed in running water and if possible it should be scrubbed with a vegetable brush. Make it a rule to use your raw food in a clean state and you need not fear dysentery.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1840 the steamship Unicorn arrived at Halifax. She was really the first vessel of the Cunard line, although the honor for that distinction generally goes to the Britannia, which followed a month later, sailing from Liverpool on July 1. Samuel Cunard had signed his mail contract with the British postoffice to carry the mails to Halifax (where they were to be transferred overland to the St. Lawrence) and Boston. The ships he had ordered were still building, but he wanted to demonstrate that he could do the job, and so he decided that the little Unicorn should be the first of his mail steamers. She was just a tiny thing, of 700 tons, purchased to make the run with the mails from Pictou to Quebec but she made the passage in remarkable time for so small a ship. The history of the Cunard line tells that the Unicorn "hauled out of the Clarence Dock, Liverpool, bound for Halifax on May 15, 1840, with 453 tons of coal." The passengers, 27 in all, including Edward Cunard, son of the founder of the line, went aboard on the 16th and at noon she rounded the Rock House lightship and proceeded to sea.

At Halifax the Unicorn was warmly welcomed; she discharged part of her cargo and mails, and three of her passengers, and then proceeded to Boston which she reached on June 3. Her welcome there was remarkable; the whole town turned out; there were salutes and bonfires and a civic banquet at which Mayor Chapman toasted "England and America: May neither forget that they stand in the interesting relation of mother and daughter"; and the British consul, not to be outdone, toasted: "The Unicorn—long considered an apochryphal animal; henceforth an acknowledged type of peace—may the British lion never plant his paw, shake his mane, or lash his tail in anger on this friendly soil!" That was in Faneuil Hall, where 67 years before the Boston Tea Party had been decided on!

The Unicorn did her duty on the St. Lawrence and ended her life as a warship in the Portuguese navy.

Current Comment

NO END TO TAXATION

The latest discussions on taxation remove the subject far from the aims sought a few years ago. When it was accepted as a sound principle that overlapping and duplication should be eliminated. The demands for new taxes for provinces and municipalities disregard altogether the fact that every form of taxation possible is being utilized somewhere. In Ontario is a movement to provide additional sources of revenue for the towns and cities, and Mr. Lapointe in the House of Commons a few days ago that every province had subscribed to the proposal to authorize a provincial sales tax and a levy on the patronage of hotels, restaurants and places of entertainment. If enabling measures are passed in these respects they would bring further duplication, although it would not be direct in the case of hotels and restaurants.

It would be useless to try to disguise the truth with regard to the provinces and many urban municipalities. Like the Federal Government itself, they want more money. But was there ever a time when they didn't? And is there any assurance that what is being attempted now, if carried through would not be followed by other demands?—Toronto Globe.

The Mail Bag

VOX POPULI

Editor Bulletin: In the Albertan of May 23 "Celts" makes the following statement: "Opposing factions will attempt to impede the progress of Social Credit, but Social Creditors stand together firmly as a rock and they have no doubt about the ultimate issue, because the voice of the people is the voice of God."

Is it possible that in this 20th century men are still speaking in the words of the middle ages? "The voice of the people is the voice of God," is as unsound as it is pagan. The voice of the people condemned the death of Stephen, the first Christian martyr. The same voice cast Paul into the Roman prison and lit fires that burned at the stake thousands of the witnesses of Christ. It still lynches the negro in the Southern States. It was the voice of the people that cried, "Away with Him, away with Him," and so nailed the Son of God to the cross. The voice of the people under fanatical leadership soon degenerates into the howling mob.

Major Douglas, before our legislative assembly on April 6, 1934, made the following statement: "The majority in matters of detail and in matters of intelligence is, broadly speaking, always wrong. Minorities, in matters of this kind, requiring special intelligence are the only people that can be right."

The more intimate the question is the more certain it is that the minority is right and the majority is wrong.

Dr. Foodick recently put it in another form. "The majority is almost certain to be wrong on any matter of fine taste or sound judgment."

The voice of God has always come to men not through the mass but by way of the "ecclesia," "the called," the few who have ears to hear and see and seek to do His will. "Ye are My witnesses," Jesus said to the few. "Ye are as a city set on a hill." "Ye are the salt of the earth." "Ye are the light of the world." "Ye are the leaven."

No, Mr. Celta, we are uncompromisingly opposed to your statement as to the channel whereby God speaks to man. If the Albertan is to lead along the way of truth it must found its principles upon the Rock; not to follow the voice of the people. To follow the Christ Jesus did not say "Follow the crowd." He said "Follow Me." No, no, the voice of the people is not the voice of God. We must part company with any philosophy founded upon such sinking sand. We would say with Moses of old: "Their rock is not our rock, even our enemies themselves being judges."

The Mathematical Conquest Of The Air

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

One reason why our Universities should take up aviation as a major branch of study, and devote every possible facility to the education necessary for successful air work, is that the mathematical knowledge necessary to perfect the student's efficiency is just as important as the mechanical knowledge. Also it is a most fascinating branch of study, because it brings to the knowledge of the student the lure of the physical world. It is not only a training of the mind so as to promote definite accuracy of thought; but a gaining of knowledge of the Sun, Moon, Planets and Stars, including our own Planet the Earth, to an extent which equals in absorbing practical interest any branch of study.

The graduate, gaining a University degree, evidencing a course of study in mathematical and mechanical air work, including a knowledge of the construction and adjustment of all the instruments and radio beams and beacons in use, will not have to commence a search for practical opportunity; because that opportunity will be waiting for him or her. In very wide degree, air work offers equality of opportunity as between the sexes.

The history of navigation and of exploration is one of absorbing interest. Students will read Halkuyts Voyages as pictures from life which illustrate what was done by pioneering in primitive ships, with the aid of primitive instruments far removed from the precision instuments of today.

The pioneer work of Lieut. Du Maury, away back in the 1830's, in the United States Hydrographical Department, ascertaining and classifying the best available ocean routes of the world can be read as interesting news today.

The more modern efforts of Admiral St. Hilaire, Lieutenant d'Aquino, the Rev. Frederick Ball, the Rev. Mr. Hall, Captain Leckie, Mr. Raper, Mr. A. C. Johnson, Mr. Gibson and Mr. Reister and Captain Purey-Cust, can all be assembled and brought within the reach of the student in a University library; and have great historical interest and great news value setting forth the process of development which has crystalized in modern navigation. In air navigation the works of Lieutenant-Commander Weems, U.S.N., would naturally be assembled for student reference.

Without any letting down of scholastic standards, any modern University should have no difficulty in assembling and training very large classes of students for the conquest of the air.

This is the first time that Kreisler has contributed a score to the movies.

ONCE OPERETTA

"The King Steps Out" is a picturization of an operetta that the great violinist wrote for the Theatre an der Wien where it was most successfully produced three years ago, the title being "Sissy," the pet name of a lovely Austrian Empress of the last century. It tells of her romance.

Included in the score are some of Kreisler's most beloved compositions, for Kreisler is not only the world's leading violinist, in popular estimation, but he is one of the best equipped technically, of present-day composers. Kreisler, the composer, stands a very good chance of outliving Kreisler the violinist.

ROUSING MARCH

There is a dandy, rousing march number and several others. While the melodies are familiar, new lyrics have been fitted to them by Dorothy Fields.

Miss Moore is given a great many opportunities to shine, both vocally and histrionically, and these she takes full advatage of. Her supple, appealing voice is heard to excellent advantage in the caressing Kreisler melodies, with an orchestral background that testifies to the composer's consummate artistry in this respect.

Miss Moore not only sings beautifully but her appearance is delightful and her acting above reproach.

The supporting cast is all that could be desired, and includes Franchot Tone and Walter Connolly.

"The King Steps Out" promises to be one of the standout pictures of all time.

CAPITOL

Freddie Bartholomew goes on record as the first actor to play "Little Lord Fauntleroy" without benefit of the traditional long golden curls and plush suit in the Selznick International film version of the world famous Frances Hodgson Burnett story, which constars the popular child star with Dolores Costello Barrymore and is playing this week at the Capitol theatre.

This departure from tradition is the direct result of public reaction to the announcement that David O Selznick, who makes his debut as an independent producer with this film, would let the fans decide whether Freddie should wear the long golden curls or his own short chestnut locks.

In all other respects, however, Hugh Walpole, who adapted "Little Lord Fauntleroy" to the screen, has faithfully adhered to the universally beloved story of the little American boy who became a nobleman, went to England to live in a Castle with the irascible Earl of Dorincourt and transformed that gentleman from a surly old bear to a lovable old grandfather.

Dolores Costello Barrymore makes her return to the screen in the role of 'Dearest,' the little fellow's beautiful and adored young mother; C. Aubrey Smith is seen as the Earl; Guy Kibbee and Mickey Rooney play Fauntleroy's American friends Mr. Hobbs and Dick, the bootblack. Others in the cast are Henry Stephenson, Jackie Searl, E. E. Clive, Una O'Connor, Ivan Simpson and Jessie Ralph. John Cromwell directed the film, which is released through United Artists.

RIALTO

Gene Stratton-Porter has been acclaimed as unique in the field of literature as Mark Twain, the one for his humor and philosophy, the other for her creation of world-wide interest in a love for the fields and flowers, the birds and bees, and the sincere, upstanding people who live close to the soil. "The Harvester," third Porter book to be brought to the screen opens at the Rialto theatre today, for three days, with one of Hollywood's finest casts, headed by Alice Brady, Russell Hardie, Anne Rutherford, Cora Sue Collins, Frank Craven, Emma Dunn, Eddie Nugent, Joyce Compton, and a dozen other important players.

The Harvester" tells dramatically the simple but poignant story of a fine young Limberlost farmer, Russell Hardie, struggling with the problem of picking the right wife for the new farmhouse he's building. Miss Brady, as the ambitious mother of Joyce Compton, smart town beauty, shrewdly steers them into an engagement that surprises and confuses the slow-stirring young man.

The second feature of this big double program introduces the brand new comedy team of Louise Fazenda and Maude Eburne, which makes its debut before film auticences when "Doughnuts and Society" opens at the Rialto theatre Monday for three days.

The story is said to show Miss Fazenda and Miss Eburne as two buxom widows operating a coffee shop. Their continual altercations have become a habit over such a long period of time that they are unhappy unless fighting with each other.

Beautiful "Breath of Spring" dinnervare is being given away free to the ladies.

STRAND

What a gold rush sounds like is revealed for the first time from the screen in "Robin Hood of El Dorado," spectacular new feature starring Warner Baxter at the Strand theatre. It was filmed in the remote "mother lode" wilderness country of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California.

Screen fans have had a liberal education in sounds that have gone forever since the screen first began to talk. They've heard the roar of great battles, the mad thunder of a stampeding buffalo herd, the street noises of the eighteenth century.

But now, for the first time, sounds of a gold rush that took place more than eighty years ago are reproduced with fidelity in this new picture dealing with the adventuresome life of Joaquin Murieta, dashing bad-man of the days of '49.

Under the direction of William Wellman, old-time gold-panners operated pans and sluice boxes in the mountain streams, and the gurgle of water washing out the gravel to reveal the gold is heard from the screen for the first time.

son is to ensure subsistence, and that communist incitation is behind such a movement simply shows weakness on the part of the government and weakness indicates lack of ability.

The incompetent and ignorant schoolmaster can keep youngsters in subjection through fear, but a capable and sympathetic master maintains order by means of kindness and tact. Pupils hate the one, respect and love the other. Men and women are only grown up boys and girls and crave in the same way to authority, hate and despise the law, revere and love justice.

How true it is that "history repeats itself." It is only a little more than 100 years ago that England was emerging from 20 years of almost continuous warfare, with the same results to people then living as the World War has brought to us. A colossal and overwhelming debt situation, a nightmare burden of interest, huge fortunes made by war profiteers invested in government bonds, inflation, deflation, gold currency, rising prices, starvation wages, unemployment and the most bitter distress. William Cobbett wrote in 1823: "A very large portion of the agricultural laborers of England; a very large portion of those who raise all the food, who make all the buildings, who prepare all the fuel, who, in short, by their labour sustain the community; a very large part of these exist in a state of almost incessant hunger." These conditions gave rise to discontent, agitation and rioting just as they do today, ignoring the real cause the government of that day insisted on plots instigated by agents of foreign powers, as we today are told that all strikes and protests originate with Moscow communists, says Cobbett in 1816: "Oh, how they (the government) sigh! They cry working and slaving and fretting and stewing; they are sweating all over; they are absolutely pining and dying for a plot!"

Finally as a panacea for all their ills, the government of that day proceeded still further to the debt accumulated through years of war and the people of England have counted and rolled that day to this, over a hundred years, to pay interest on that ever-growing refunded debt, while the profiteers and the wealthy born lived in the lap of luxury on the fruits of that sweat and toil; the debt increased a hundred fold, is still owing, the interest still running on! Of what use studying past history? Of what use past experience if we neither learn by the one nor profit by the other? Refunding debt is a contemptible expediency and a crime against posterity. All we are justified in doing is to go on as we are, as best we can, until a statesman comes forward, as come forward he will sooner or later, who will be man enough and courageous enough to say: "Enough of paying interest on debt that is never paid, we will print the money and pay the debt." May that great day come soon!

FOUL PLAY IN COAST DEATH

VANCOUVER, June 1. — Convinced that Mrs. Holger Sundstrom, whose almost naked body was found on the shore of Texada Island Saturday, had met with foul play, police intensified their investigation into the case.

Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, of the Vancouver police bureau of science, was called into the case after an autopsy on the body showed the woman had not died from drowning and revealed a bruise on the right side of the neck and serious blood throughout the body and brain.

The woman, travelling under the name of Mrs. Edith Ellis on the Union Steamship vessel Cardena from Vancouver to Rock Bay, disappeared from the boat sometime after midnight May 25.

40-HOUR WEEK IS PARIS HOPE

PARIS, June 1—Hope of a 40-hour week was placed before thousands of French strikers last night by Leon Blum, who is to become the first socialist premier of France this week.

Speaking at a socialist congress, Blum said critics who talked of possible repercussions of a present strike, "forget too quickly that the workers have just sent into office a government whose first act will be to ask for a 40-hour week."

Armies of strikers holding metal factories in the Paris region dwindled Sunday but the government was dismayed by the prospect of a new wave of strikes Tuesday.

Girl Guides Hold Pretty May Festival

Uniforms, flags and other marks of ceremony were doffed in an entirely new gesture of informality when Girl Guides of the Second Company of Holy Trinity church held their annual May Day celebration at Acacia Hall on Saturday afternoon. Like carefree butterflies or fragile blossoms in their organdies and muslins of palest mauve and pink and green, they tripped in colorful procession to herald the arrival of the Queen of the May.

Miss Mary Flavin it was whom 50 Guides and 30 Brownies had chosen to wear the crown of pink and white daisies and to occupy the royal chair on the dais.

Beside her successor marched Miss Margaret Urquhart, last year's queen, who officiated at the coronation ceremony. Miss Dorothy Booker and Miss Gwendoline Scott were maids of honor and little Miss Sheila McGregor acted as crown bearer. Holding up the long train of mauve satin were Miss Elaine Sharpe and Miss Patricia Sullivan.

At tables, artistically decorated with miniature maypoles, about which tiny kewpies were dancing, and bowls of fresh blossoms, members of the Guides Mothers' Association presided at tea.

BROWNIES TAKE PART

Transformation of Cinderella as depicted by the little Brownies had an entirely new appeal, and they were charming too when they sat cross legged in a wide circle to sing about the "Wind Whispering In My Tree."

Mrs. Fred Cook sang vocal solos and Miss Dorothy McLean gave an excellent reading of "The Workman". Mrs. A. J. H. Powell and Miss Joyce Carmick were accompanists.

Mrs. S. H. Gandier, South Side Commissioner, spoke briefly in appreciation of the co-operation of the mothers at the affair which was in aid of the summer camp fund. She also offered her congratulations to the little Brownies to whom she presented awards of merit. Winners were Miss Dona Doughty, "good at her work and a sport at play", Miss Margaret Marlatt, whose attendance has been of 95 per cent, Miss Jean Cowley, "for proficiency in her first year of Brownies", Miss Doris Ward, for smart appearance in her uniform, and Miss Joan Race for attendance over 75 per cent in three years of outstanding service.

In expression of their esteem and gratitude, the second company presented to their First Aid instructor, Mrs. J. K. Rimer, a handsome gift. Miss Helen Burns, Captain of District B., South Edmonton Guides, announced that the following had successfully passed First Aid tests, to obtain junior St. Johns' Ambulance badges and Guide Ambulance badges, Miss Joan Bond, Miss Mary Flavin, Miss Joan Sampson, Miss Marjorie Peet, Miss Lena Fewn, Miss Phyllis Shaw, Miss Doreen Norris, Miss Mary Hobson, Miss Helen Bolle, Miss Audrey Peppre, Miss Joyce Cormick, Miss Edna Berry, Miss Irene Spiessman, Miss Margaret Urquhart, Miss Betty Lord, Miss Irene Yule, Miss Marjorie Mather and Miss Florence Smith.

An afghan, made by members of the Mothers Association, was won in a draw; little Lorry Hudson and Miss Doris Morgan won the quilt which the Rangers had made.

Mrs. Frank Sampson, general convener, was assisted with arrangements by Mrs. C. Shaw and Mrs. C. Cormick. Mrs. J. R. C. Carter as Brown Owl and Miss Winnifred Hales as Tawny Owl also helped, as did Mrs. F. E. Moroney, president of the Mothers Association.

Bride At Prominent Ceremony

MRS. AVARNE-WALKENDEN, who before her marriage to Major Thomas Jefferies Avarne-Walkenden of Jasper and Rugeley Hall, Staffordshire, England, wass Miss Nona Nicholls. The wedding which took place in Christ church on Monday morning centers the attention of society both here and abroad. The bride, as the daughter of Mrs. A. A. Nicholls, has been very prominent socially and has given much of her interest to the activities of the Junior Hospital League of which she is a member. Major and Mrs. Avarne-Walkenden will make their home at Jasper.

Wedding Of Nona Nicholls Holds Interest

Centering the interest of society was the wedding of Nona Nicholls only daughter of Mrs. Nicholls and the late Dr. A. A. Nicholls and Major Thomas Jefferies Avarne-Walkenden, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Avarne-Walkenden of Rugeley Hall, Staffordshire England, which took place at ten o'clock on Monday morning in Christ church.

Before the altar, banked with white snapdragons and stocks, the nuptial service was read by the rector of the church, Rev. G. P. Gower.

The bride, smart in a white tailleur with white hat, and shoes, and wearing a corsage of yellow roses, was attended by Mrs. Patrick Malcolmson, as matron of honor.

Major Kenneth Kinnaird was groomsman. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride on Villa avenue, when Mrs. Nicholls received with her daughter and son-in-law.

Later, Major and Mrs. Avarne-Walkenden left for Jasper where they will make their home.

Service, Peace Work, Of I.O.D.E. Commended At 36th Annual Conference

WINNIPEG, June 1.—Delegates to the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the National Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of Empire, face four days of business meetings before the closing session Thursday.

Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper, Premier Bracken and Mayor Queen on Saturday addressed the representatives of 20,000 Canadian women welcoming them to Winnipeg.

"We need a loyal and true organization like yours at our backs in Canada and throughout the Empire at this time," said His Majesty's representative in welcoming the 200 delegates. "Canada appreciates the lead you took in establishing the King George V cancer fund," Mr. Tupper declared.

Premier Bracken complimented the order on its 12-branched program of peacetime activities. "We have trust in your meeting your responsibilities as leaders of women," he stated.

Mayor Queen noted Canada's remoteness from the nervous tension of Europe. "This happy situation should leave us with more time to devote to internal problems," the mayor said. The order should apply their influence to that end, he charged.

Replying to the address of welcome on behalf of visiting delegates, Mrs. F. Stead, British Columbia provincial president, stated, "We have come from throughout this Dominion with a common purpose of counselling how best to serve our country in waging a war against war, disease, poverty, unrest and despair. Our efforts in the past have not been unavailing as our work proves in each locality."

Emphasizing the necessity of a secure foundation, Mrs. Lumbers, Toronto, national president, appealed for earnest co-operation in assisting with the endowment fund of the order.

Re-dedication of the order to service was asked by the president.

the social round . . . . .

PARIS.—Schiaparelli, always full of surprises, has a new bag of tricks in her mid-season collection. For evening she pushes the hair right back from the forehead with a silk bandeau which she calls a "Liane."

Gowns are in very sheer striped muslin, organdy, roma or flower prints in soft shades and they are often fashioned with shawl drapery at the shoulders which can be pulled up to form a cape. Evening capes have pleated backs and hangman's hoods and there is an oilskin evening cape, full and hooded, of a rosy pink shade. An evening mackintosh is transparent and is colorful over a printed evening dress.

The daytime silhouette retains the high, slender waistline and concentrates interest under the chin and at the shoulders. Dresses fasten with amusing buttons shaped like tiny lanterns, gingerbread pigs and stiff tassels. Some dresses have printed handkerchiefs which are tied into bow knots as fastenings while others are closed with the usual Schiaparelli zippers.

Materials are particularly amusing. One print is scattered with fat little elephants and cocoanut trees and is shown in white and black or pale pink and pale blue. Another crepe is printed with a little thermometer whose red mercury runs from "Indifference" at the bottom of the scale to "Passion" at the top. Still a third shows radio stations, sound waves, and airplanes zigzagging across the material.

Who's Who In Club Life

MARION CARVETH CONROY, president of the Northern Alberta Liberal Association resides at 9938 112 street. Mrs. Conroy was born in Peterboro, Ontario, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carveth.

Receiving her education at Notre Dame convent, Peterboro, she taugh school for three years there and at Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay.

Married at her home town in May, 1912, to Mr. Frank J. Conroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Conroy of Peterboro.

Has three sons, Allan, who has graduated in Medicine from the the University of Alberta at Convocation. William, who has completed his high school training and hopes to take up engineering, and Harry, who is now studying at the Separate high school.

One of her three daughters, Marion Catherine received her Bachelor of Arts degree at Convocation this year. She is a member of the Delta Gamma fraternity. Patricia, her second daughter, is an accomplished pianist and Gertrude is in grade eight at the Grandin school.

Religion: Catholic.

Mrs. Conroy's chief interest, especially in the past two years, has been in the field of politics, which she finds "interesting and absorbing." This activity arises, however, not only from natural executive ability, recognized in her work as president of the Edmonton Diocese of the Catholic Women's League—which embraces a membership of 2000 throughout northern Alberta—or from a facility for public speaking, but from an aim toward social betterment. The need for this improvement was first impressed upon Mrs. Conroy during her six years' service as convener of welfare work in the league. Since them she has concentrated her efforts in any movement which makes for progress. She is especially anxious to see a system of adult education in effect. She is working, too, to create more interest in scientific research, to the end that all natural resources might be made use of. Institution of projects on behalf of the recipients of relief, such as quilting classes and sewing groups are other ambitions she is endeavoring to fulfill.

Thinking to be able to bring about some of these measures, she has taken a leading part in the activities of the Liberal party and is president of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association.

Of other activities, or hobbies, Mrs. Conroy likes writing, and has had several articles published. Music, bridge, she enjoys and walking for exercise. She admits, however, that she gets more enjoyment out of juggling with figures and solving mathematical problems than anything else, and would consider it fun "to sit in an office all day."

She is fond, too, of heavier reading, history and philosophy.

Dancers Tell Toyland Story, Jordan Review

"He played so well he made them dance out of England into France, out of France, into Spain, over the hills and back agin." . . . Perhaps it was not magic music from the pipes of the Pied Piper that compelled the feet of pupils of the Jordan School of Dancing at their review at the Empire theatre on Saturday evening, but surely their brilliant performances were pervaded with something of the spirit of far-off lands and older legends, which were used in clever setting for the show.

There was real charm in the ten opening numbers, in which artists were introduced through the door of a great shoe, the home of the old woman whose "so many children," tap danced, did acrobatics, sang and skipped and played for their own amusement.

The large audience enthusiastically applauded the antics of the "babies" whose tumblings and somersaults brought them almost into their mother's wash tub. There Little Boy Blue pranced about with his bugle; little girls who danced over their skipiping ropes, the brightly costumed guests at the "Wedding of Jack and Jill." Miss Jean Fuller and Miss Mary Allen appeared in a most interesting acrobatic hand tap.

INDIAN CAMP

The scene, shifting from a German toy-shop, where a flaxen-haired girl doll and boy doll were dancing on their shelf in dead of night, to an "Indian Fantasy." As blanketed figures huddled about a camp fire, and someone sang the Indian Love Call, Miss Marie Jordan appeared in one of the outstanding solo numbers of the evening, a spirited Indian dance. At intervals, a curtain was raised to reveal Indian braves, posed like statues in pyramid tableaux. Gordon Garside and Norma Johnson displayed real skill in a difficult adagio dance.

With Margaret Keeler, Marie Jordan scored again in a rather breathtaking number, done on roller skates. As the "Music Went Round and Round," the feet of little Kenneth Quinn and Leonard Peter followed its every beat, in perfect time, as they flashed up and down and under and over two sets of stairs.

"LADIES IN BLUE"

Bernice Fowler, Janice Rheinhart and Rita Coles were the personification of grace in their toe dance as the "Ladies in Blue." Part two was concluded with an exhibition of ballroom dancing.

Inebriates, escaped convicts simpering country lasses provided excellent comedy through the medium of an "Amateur Hour" conducted by Gordon Garside.

All in silver, Doris and Marie Jordan might have represented wing-footed Mercuries in the swift moving tap dance number which the audience acclaimed with deafening applause, the hit of the evening. Flowers, in tribute to true artistry were presented to each girl.

"Don't Give Up the Ship," a song by the four Bruce sisters; "We Saw the Sea," a chorus by tiny girls in brief pleated white skirts and middies with wide blue collars, and the sailor's hornpipe were all introduced in the arrangement, "All Hands on Deck."

INTERPRETATION OF STORM

Perhaps the most remarkable interpretive dance was "The Storm" . . . led by Miss Doris Jordan. Four girls, graceful as wood nymphs in their filmy snow white chiffon, danced about madly, blinded at the flash of lightning, staggering with the driving rain, raising their arms in supplication, only to be swept down before its anger, not to be revived even by the "Breath of Spring," little Shirley Brunner, who came with flowers.

"Here Comes the Sun" sang the whole company as in finale, little Fay Schulze was lowered from the flies in a swing, to flutter like a golden sunbeam down a giant rainbow.

Costumes throughout were particularly artistic and colorful. Miss Doris Jordan, director, was assisted in the general arrangement by her sister, Miss Marie Jordan. Miss Jean Fuller, Mr. Gordon Garside and Mr. Frank Lewis were student teachers.

Among others taking part in the revue were: Reesor Kaufman, Tom Thompson, Dennis Pearce, Billy Love, Jean Careau, Lucy Wilson, Frances Taylor, Dorothy Browning, Shirley Leonard, Audrey Williams, Marion Thom, Rita Brooks, Gloria Lotnick, Doreen Bender, Eileen Kerr, Jean Latimer, Kathleen McLeod, May Cowan, Shirley Brunner, Isabel McLeod, Agnes Hooper, Betty Rennie, Ruth Baker, Beth Baker, Annie Yakimchuk, Emily Holloway, Enid Bruce, Ella Rae Dundrum, Norma Bruce, Margaret Keeler, Ethel Severson, Mickey Clifton, Barbara Cowan, Dorian Airin, Marilyn Shaver, Daphne Christensen, Marjorie Wilson, Marion Sutherland, May Cowan, Evelyn Howey, Florence Weinlos, Audrey Johnson, Joyce Passmore, Raymond Yule, Joy Judge, Lorraine Hope, Yvonne Germaine, Doreen Kelly, Dolores Love, Ronald Reed, Norma Johnson, Betty Youmans, Irene Davidson, Barbara Newnham, Audrey Archer, Betty Kingzett, Jean Fuller, Mary Allen, Barbara Cowan, Nan Bruce, Lorraine Hope, Marian Dittrich, Marilyn Morgan, Mary Allen, Rita Coles, Janice Rheinhart, Barbara McLachlan, Stanis Braun, Irene Kellaway, Kathleen Pilip, Bernice Stenton, Fay Schulze, Lucy Wilson, Barbara Newnham, Luella Johnson, Jean Clemens, Eileen Kerr, June Careau, Joyce Murray.

Weddings

BUECHNER—HORBAN

Solemnized at a charmingly simple ceremony conducted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Leo Nelligan on May 23, the wedding of Miss Anne Horban and Mr. William Buechner was an event of interest to many friends in Edmonton recently.

Miss Rose Sassons, Mr. Paul Benson and Mr. and Mrs. Demchuk were attendants.

Following the service a reception to more than 150 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents at Beverly.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Buechner left for a honeymoon trip to Wyoming.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Little Women Can Make Themselves Appear Tall

By GLADYS GLAD

When I was a youngster, one of my favorite fairy tales was the story of Tom Thumb. Yet despite his small size, Tom managed to do mighty big things. And I think that all those short girls who write in to me bemoaning their lack of stature, could learn a good deal from Tom's story. For the moral of it is, that a less can achieve success regardless of her height, if she uses that brain of hers.

As I told you recently, there are a number of girls who resent the fact that they are tall. But there are just as many lasses who are discontented because of their lack of stature, and they feel that there is nothing much that they can do about it. Of course a short girl who has reached her ultimate height can't make herself a great deal taller. Stretching exercises help during the formative years, but not much after full development has been reached. But a short girl can at least make herself appear taller if she gowns herself properly, and is careful of her posture.

LUPE VELEZ

MOST CAREFUL OF POSTURE

The short girl should be most careful of her posture. For a firm, erect carriage will make her seem taller than she really is. As to gowning, the short girl should usually avoid the lines that the tall girl should adopt. For her, those belted dresses, cape dresses, tunics, jumpers and bolero are low. Straightline dresses that are without any contrasting shade are best for the short girl, because they do not cut her figure, but tend to make her appear taller.

In addition, the short girl should carefully avoid crisp, stiff materials. Such materials will tend only to make her appear shorter and dumpier than she really is, because of their bouffant nature. The best materials for the short girl are vertically striped ones, solid colored ones and lace-figured ones. For such materials will tend to make her appear taller than she really is. Hats and shoes, too, should be of harmonizing shades, rather than hues that contrast with the shade of the gown worn. For if the eye can travel from head to toe without any interruption, an effect of greater height is achieved.

Vinegar Rinse

Gloria: The vinegar rinse is a softening rinse and brings out lovely highlights in the hair. It should be composed of half a glass of vinegar and a pint of clear water.

GLADYS GLAD.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlet on "The New Figure" write, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin, to cover cost of printing and handling.

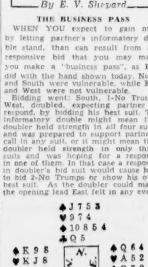

Contract Bridge

By E. V. Shepard

THE BUSINESS PASS

WHEN YOU expect to gain more by letting partner's informatory double stand, than can result from any responsive bid that you may make, you make a "business pass", as East did with the hand shown today. North and South were vulnerable, while East and West were not vulnerable.

Bidding went: South, 1-No Trump; West, doubled, expecting partner to respond, by bidding his best suit. The informatory double might mean that doubler held strength in all four suits, and was prepared to support partner's call in any suit, or it might mean that doubler held strength in only three suits and was hoping for a response in one of them. In that case a response in doubler's bid suit would cause him to bid 2-No Trumps or show his own best suit. As the doubler could make the opening lead East felt in any event

Here's beautifully caped shoulder dress. It is definitely the sort you'd choose for town, that would wear for country as well.

This charming dress has a crisp fabric to accent the flattering V-neck. There's important plaits at the front of the slender-line gored skirt.

It captures charm and gaiety in dotted sheer print crepe in navy, brown or wine and white.

It's so simple to sew, you'll want to make another in perhaps grey linen, white tub silk or yellow and brown striped pique.

Style No. 2831 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46-inches bust. Size 36 requires 5¾ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of lace edging.

Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

What New York Is Wearing

By Helen Williams

that the chances of defeating the no trump call seemed those for getting game, and he passed. The declarer could have redoubled, as a bridge S. O. S., demanding that partner bid his best suit, but he passed.

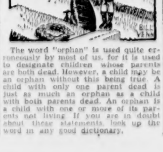

The opening lead was the 4 of clubs. Dummy's Q held the trick. East played the 3, to show four clubs. Dummy's 9 of hearts was led. East played low. West's 2 won the trick. West led his Ace of clubs. East completed his plain-suit echo, by playing the 6. Declarer's J dropped. Declarer was given his K of clubs, for his second trick. Declarer continued his attempts to clear hearts, by leading the 5, and West was in with the K, after which that player took his good 10 of clubs. South discarded his lowest spade.

West led the 8 of spades. East's Q forced declarer's Ace, for his third trick. He gave East his Ace of hearts, leaving declarer with a single long heart. At the ninth trick East led the 6 of spades. Declarer's 10 was picked up with West's K. West led the 3 of diamonds. Dummy played low. East played low, and declarer's 9 won. South took his good 3 of hearts, for his fifth and last trick. He held nothing except his K-J of diamonds and had to lead that suit, giving the defenders the two last tricks, no matter how he led, going down two tricks on his contract. Two tricks down, doubled when vulnerable, cost declarer 300 points.

Perhaps the result was a bit disappointing to the doubler, but when he had figured over what might have resulted from any bid by East, the doubler stated that the "business pass" had been the best response.

The Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

The word "orphan" is used quite erroneously by most of us, for it is used to designate children whose parents are both dead. However, a child may be an orphan without this being true. A child with only one parent dead is just as much an orphan as a child with both parents dead. An orphan is a child with one or more of its parents not living. If you are in doubt about these statements, look up the word in any good dictionary.

Food Suggestions For That Hike Or Picnic

By MARY E. DAGUE

Rare June days are here again and picnic statistics are in order.

Here's a list of calculations that may help when the family decides to betake itself to the nearest picnic spot with well-filled basket.

TABLE OF SERVINGS

One large cake tea inches in diameter will serve 16 persons.

One loaf of sandwich bread will make 24 sandwiches which have been cut in half.

Two-thirds cup creamed butter will spread both sides of 24 sandwiches.

Sister Mary

One pint of sandwich filling will fill 24 sandwiches.

One quart of salad will serve eight persons.

One 4-pound chicken will yield about 2 cups of clear diced meat.

One 2½ pound lobster will yield, when boiled, enough meat for one quart of salad combined with other material.

One-half pound coffee and 4 quarts of boiling water will make enough of the beverage for 18 people.

One and one-half dozen lemons will make enough lemonade to serve 20 to 25 persons, depending largely on the size and juiciness of the fruit.

One quart of a frozen mixture will serve 6 to 8 persons. When ice cream means the main part of the refreshments a larger serving is needed.

One pound of salted nuts will serve 16 persons.

One pound of cold boiled ham or baked ham will serve 5 to 8 persons, and one pound of meat loaf will provide for about the same number.

MAINTAIN PROPER BALANCE

It's quite as important that a picnic meal contain all the necessary food elements as for any other meal. Fruit and tomatoes are easy to carry and easy to serve. The carrying properties and serving qualities of picnic foods must be considered, too, because usually one plate must answer for all course. Fruit pies are hard to carry and juicy to serve. Many salads, too, resent rough handling, becoming wilted and watery if shaken about.

If you have plenty of room to carry several hampers, it's a good idea to put the salad together when ready to serve, keeping each ingredient in a container by itself. Meantime, this means crisp lettuce and a fresh, perfect dressing.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST—Strawberries, cereal, cream, ham omelet, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Asparagus souffle, romaine with Russian dressing, sliced bananas in apricot jelly, milk, tea.

DINNER—Casserole of salmon and potatoes, buttered spinach, jellied cucumber salad, pineapple upside down cake, milk, coffee.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The grand sweepstakes of spring is here. Only mother gets the sweeps and father doesn't get his steaks.

Every year the house has to have its setting-up exercises, especially after a long winter like the past one, to carry it along for another year.

This is the time I feel sorry for the kids. Oh, no, not because they have to eat snacks and sleep in odd corners, but because of the warnings. Mother isn't going to have her new wall-paper marked, or the brand clean rug spotted. Fresh curtains are "verboten" to small grimy hands, too. As for the furniture and floors gleaming with fresh polish, angels help the careless if toys make any scratches.

O. R. Barton

PERCENTAGE IS AGAINST PARENT

Outside, father has not been idle either. He has sought solace in his garden. Rows of string mark the spot where precious seed lie. Little envelopes on sticks are "atop" signs beyond which tees must not venture. The dog is tied up and everybody on probation. What a time!

Now, of course, mama knows very well that one of the new chair covers is going to have chocolate smeared on it. The law of averages says so. Or the second step from the bottom look ashamed of the chewing gum tramped into its new velvet coat.

Papa, too, can place a safe bet on small fully tabling too great an interest in his radishes and delving into earth's mysteries with the mixing spoon. He needn't have a stroke over it, either, for he knew before he began that an average number of accidents would occur and all the red lights he could hang out couldn't keep all the jinxes away.

AFTER PRIDE WEARS OFF

Once in a while it all works out fine and furnishings escape at least until the first flush of mother's pride wears off. Then a dab here or a spot there ceases to be vital. When dad reaches the stage where he makes a sour face at the house and declares the whole sandpatch can dry up for all he cares, a tomato more or less won't matter.

But in the meantime, woe to him who forgets.

The moral is this. Parents are in good bit that way. When they are glowing under a new interest, their children had better watch out. Billy, permitted to jump on the old covers, may forget they are new. Orders are orders, but custom sets his pace.

A great deal of blood pressure would be kept down if we could remember the law of averages and resign ourselves to a small, bitter dish of ruin in the punch of housekeeping.

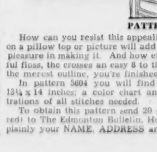

The serenity of a child's crime depends largely on the state of mind, at the moment, of his parent.

Sonnysayings

Goodbye, my dear ol' home. . . . Here I goes out in the cruel world alone, 'cept fer Nippy, 'cause you dont' love a feller that can't speak fleces. . . . I still think Baby hadn't oughter jumped up an spoke it for me . . . but ever'body said "how cute." . . . Goodbye . . . Goodbye. . . .

Takes Little Time to Cross Stitch Pillow or Picture

How can you resist this appealing pair of kittens? Their "portrait" on a pillow top or picture will add charm to your home aside from your pleasure in making it. And how effective it is, worked quickly in colorful floss, the crosses an easy 8 to the inch. Since the motif requires but the merest outline, you're finished before you know it!

In pattern 5604 you will find a transfer pattern of these kittens 15¼ x 14 inches; a color chart and key; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Edmonton Bulletin, Household Arts Dept. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Handwriting Analyzed

By MURIEL STAFFORD

Anybody who says he can tell your exact age from your handwriting is either ignorant or inexperienced. Only the handwriting of the very young or the very old can even be guessed. Sometimes it is hard to guess even as much as that.

The other night I met little Freddie Bartholomew. His handwriting, considering his age, is extraordinary. It might easily be that of an adult engaged in a profession.

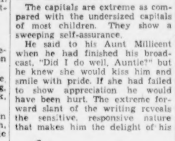

In describing the normal child's handwriting I have said the letters are usually of medium height and carefully formed with low capitals.

Freddie's handwriting does not conform to these rules in any way. He writes rapidly and so diligently that he has to go back and make the letters more distinct when he has finished. The writing is small with very dark pressure. There is nervousness here, but it was probably because he was writing to be called to broadcast as he was writing this.

SELF-ASSURANCE

The capitals are extreme as compared with the undersized capitals of most children. They show a sweeping self-assurance.

He said to his Aunt Millicent when he had finished his broadcast, "Did I do well, Auntie?" but he knew she would kiss him and smile with pride. If she had failed to show appreciation he would have been hurt. The extreme forward slant of the writing reveals the sensitive, responsive nature that makes him the delight of his directors. He gets an idea in a flash.

The most amazing thing of all in this precocious writing is the sweeping underscore that Freddie places under his signature. If your child does this at the tender age of eleven or so and does it unconsciously, he or she has a mature and charming personality. So has any adult who underscores his signature. Children hardly ever do.

Freddie gave me an excellent proof of one of the above points in his handwriting. He had written his name for me and "Best Wishes" very graciously, and without asking questions. I asked him to write his age and he said courteously but firmly, "Why should I write that?"

"My business is the study of handwriting," I told him. He quickly apologized and wrote what I had asked.

Yes, Freddie, you could study law right now and do well.

Minute Make-Ups

By V. V.

It's no trouble to keep your finger nails white if you dig your nails in soap, use the pointed tip of the tail of this turtlelike nail cleaner and the bristles of the turtle for a stern brushing.

Manners Of The Moment

By JEAN LYON

The man at the next table is so afraid he'll miss the end of the story.

A little bit of restaurant eavesdropping is very entertaining. We've tried it, and we know. But when it's the other chap who is listening to our conversation, we can see that it's really not very polite. We wouldn't suggest for a minute that you give up listening to the next table without seeming to, and as we've worked out a little plan of procedure.

First, before you sit down, try to decide which conversation you're going in for. Then seat yourself carefully at the corner of the table with your good ear toward the best gossip. Then, look anywhere but at the people to whom you're listening. And don't pokey with your eat right in between them. Just act as though you were absorbed in your own thoughts.

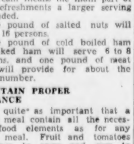

If, after all this, you have trouble in hearing what's said, you might lean over and say to one of the gossipers, just a little gruffly "Sorry, I can't help hearing what you are saying. Could you lower your voices?" That will make them mad and they will raise their voices so that you won't miss the end of the story. Simple, isn't it?—JEAN.

What To Do

Is your kitchen crying for more gayety this Spring? The kitchen is the busiest room in the home—primarily a workroom—and should have every bit of dinginess banished out. Color puts the housewife in a cheerful frame of mind and drudgery disappears when work is done cheerfully. Because kitchen surfaces are hard and smooth they need to be brighter in color than other rooms where materials are softer and richer in color and texture. Since the wall spaces are usually cut up with doors and closed cupboards, keep the walls and cabinets as nearly in one color as possible. If the walls are papered see that the designs are inconspicuous. Keep the large areas somewhat quiet in color and use the bright tones for accent and high lights. For instance, if ivory is the chosen color for the walls and woodwork, the furniture will be bright and snappy if painted in peacock blue, and a rug of yellow and blue and black will add interest to an ivory and that black floor covering. Curtain the windows in peacock-blue calico and let the kitchen flushes pink up the yellow color note in the rug. The necessary articles and utensils that are used daily should also follow the color scheme of the kitchen. And don't forget the good old red geranium on the windowsill as a final happy touch.

Hey-Hey Hayride

It's been generations since Fifth Avenue saw such carryings on as the hayride in which younger members of the New York social set participated. But the upholstery was the most rural thing about the event, except George Palmer's (left) straw hat and duster. Evening wrapped Joan Williamson bids smartly dressed Mr. and Mrs. C. Langham adieu at the start of the hayride that ended in hey-hey at a night club.

Aberhart Hits Out At His Critics At Sunday Bible Meet

Plans to Sell Share Certificates So That Institute Can be Erected Here — Money is Needed.

Growth among the common people, of a knowledge of the voice of finance and their awakening to the financial racket with a refusal to accept money bribes, is a matter of the utmost satisfaction to him, declared Premier William Aberhart in addressing a meeting of the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference at the Strand theatre on Sunday evening.

The premier also announced that he was considering a plan by which share certificates would be sold in the Prophetic Bible Conference, so that a Bible Institute could be erected in this city for the training of young people.

The premier made a plea for funds, stating that on the last two Sunday broadcasts here, the Conference went behind to the extent of $34.86.

"Our radio people have forgotten that it costs money to operate this institute," he said.

Turning his attention to affairs of government, the premier declared that, "I have never taken any business in my life more seriously than I am taking the present business of this province."

NOT CHANGING MINDS

Referring to a section of his critics, he said that, "Notwithstanding the wise-cracks I want to say that we are not changing our minds every day as they claim.

"It is evident that the question of the suffering of our people and their inability to secure freedom from the economic slavery of the interest-burdens of our enormous debts is not worrying some of our papers, which obey with much alacrity the voice of their masters, the money barons.

"One fact that I am always glad to remember is that the people are beginning to be able to recognize the voice of finance and therefore these poor puppets and mouthpieces are unable to spread the confusion and alarm that they are trying to spread.

"Up to the present the money barons have been able to hire numbers of benighted souls who deliberately undertake to confuse and double-cross their fellows in order that the economic slavery of mankind should continue.

"How despicable it all is. That it is that 100 money barons can control 10,000,000 people and crush them. Too many of the enslaved are willing to sell out. Thank God the common people are awakening to the racket and are refusing to accept money bribes to betray their fellows. There would be no cope of deliverance if this were not true."

The Premier related a conversation he had with a young reporter in eastern Canada, in which he outlined that he had left a remunerable position to embark upon the Social Credit movement.

DULL LOOKING CROWD

When he was classed as an amateur politician, simple, but sincere, said the Premier, he invariably thought of an Ottawa school that, who, after a visit to the house of commons, asked by the teacher whether the members were an intelligent collection, rose and declared that they were a rather dull looking crowd.

"After all," said the Premier, "you see, experienced politicians do not always appear extra intelligent."

The Premier's sermon was on the subject of "The Enigma of the East," with a continuation of the prophetic bible studies that have been a feature of his appearances at the institute.

As a special feature in connection with the meeting, the St. David's Welsh Male Voice Choir was present and contributed several numbers.

It Is No Longer the Better Policy to Keep the Family Skeleton Hidden Deeply In the Closet—Truth Will Often Keep One From Harm Better Than Secrets Do

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My parents are going to get a divorce, although they are still on friendly terms. My father comes to the house nearly every night and is very nice to us. I am a girl 12 years old and I am very sensitive about this divorce and feel that it will disgrace me for life. I have a few very close girl friends and to keep them from finding out about it I have told them a great many lies. Please tell me what I should do about this lying. Shall I keep on with it?

MARY ELLEN.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER:

No, no, you poor bewildered kid. You will only get yourself in deeper trouble and make the situation more difficult by lying about it. You will lose your friends far more surely by telling them falsehoods than you would by telling them the truth, for they will find out that you have deceived them and lose all confidence in you.

It is folly to try to hide the family skeleton. The door always pops open at the wrong time, or somebody peeks through the keyhole and whispers what he thinks he saw to somebody else and that starts all the gossiping tongues to wagging. The result is that everybody rattles the bones and tells an exaggerated tale about them. Everything is made to appear ten times as badly as it is. So when anything unpleasant happens in a family it is far better to make no mystery about it, but just tell the plain truth about it and open the closet door so your friends and neighbors may see for themselves what is in it. That satisfies their curiosity and stills their tongues, because it leaves them nothing to speculate about.

If your mother and father are going to get a divorce, you can't keep it a secret. It will be published in the newspapers. No doubt all of your acquaintances know about it already, so you are doing a silly thing in telling your pitiful little lies. They discredit you and do not save your mother's and father's faces. While you need not broadcast their matrimonial differences to the world, you had best tell the truth about it when you have to speak of it.

And try to get over the morbid view you are taking of the subject. Remember how common divorce is in these days and that it is no longer considered a disgrace, and certainly it puts no public stigma on the children of the divorcees. The only sentiment it arouses in any breast is one of pity for them.

But inasmuch as you feel so deeply about the matter and as your parents seem to have lost each other so unforgivable wrong, why don't you make an appeal to them to try to forget their differences for your sake? Try to make them understand what a crime they are committing against you and how they are warping your life by this divorce that they are entering into so lightly.

Tell them that you feel disgraced and that you fear that you will be ostracized by your playmates when it is known that they have parted. Tell them that you have been so crushed with shame at this thought that you have been driven to lying in order to put off the evil day as long as possible.

If they have any hearts in their bosoms; if they have any love for you; if they have any sense of responsibility and duty to the child they have brought into the world, they certainly will not sacrifice you to some whim of boredom or some gust of passion. They will wait until you are grown before they part.

DOROTHY DIX.

Head-Hunters, Sharks Haunt City Traveller

Back from the land of the head-hunter and cannibal, who still roam where white men fear to tread and where the blood orgies of the blackmen form an effective barrier to the march of civilization comes James H. Nursey, of 10915 107 street, an employee of the city's billing department who last week finished a six weeks' sea voyage which carried him away "down under" to Australia and New Guinea.

A seasoned traveller who has packed his nose into almost every port of the world, Mr. Nursey is back on the job again and telling tales of the shark-infested waters of the Australian coast where bathers on the world-famous beaches are protected from the dread "grey nurse" and "tiger" sharks by an airplane patrol which roars overhead and signals beach stations when the giant man-eaters approach.

WATCH 'EM RUN

On the north and south coasts of Australia are the world-famous beaches which stretch for thousands of miles. Bondi Beach is one of the most popular, and here thousands of bathers gather every day to sit and sun in the sand or go surf-board riding all the year round.

"There are many casualties here, despite the protective measures taken to combat the shark menace," Mr. Nursey told the reporter. "There are the 'grey nurse' and the 'tiger sharks' and to keep them away from the beach the municipality of Sidney has constructed heavy wire netting. Maintenance of these is very difficult, however, owing to the fact that tides wash away the foundations. The braver but perhaps more foolhardy often swim beyond this barrier, and it is then they are in danger from the cruel jaws of the sharks."

AIR PATROL

"It is interesting to watch the-air-plane patrol on the lookout for the man-eaters," continued Mr. Nursey. "As soon as a shark is spotted, the pilot signals to the beach where a bell alarm is immediately sounded. You should see the bathers dash for shore! When the creatures have swum away the all clear signal is given and the people all rush back to the water as quickly as they left."

He remarked that sharks were notoriously vicious and had on occasion leaped out of the water to snap the arm off a person in an open boat.

Next on the trip came Brisbane, capital of Queensland which is famous for its breed of sheep. And then to Cairns, where the traveller gets his or her first taste of real tropical heat as the merciless sun beats down.

Next comes Port Moresby, chief port of Papua which is a portion of the island of Guinea. "While there I visited the Anglican mission, prosperous and well-maintained. Here they instruct and train the natives in various handicrafts, particularly boat-building," said Mr. Nursey.

PRECIOUS METAL

At Bulelo one may see workers wresting the precious yellow metal from the earth. "Some idea of the richness of the field, which is financed mostly by English and Canadian capital, may be gained from the fact that since the area was opened up a few years ago production has amounted to 320,000 ounces of gold, which represents a value of 1,000,000 pounds sterling, Australian," Mr. Nursey declared.

But behind all this is the hidden dread of the headhunters and cannibals. They roam far inland in the "uncontrolled" area. "Whites are not permitted to go there," he stated. "Headhunters are known as 'kukus.' They are absolute cannibals and their cruelty is beyond belief. It seems strange to us, accustomed to our up-to-date restaurants, places of amusement and civilized enjoyments that in another part of the world in the fastness of the jungle lurk blackmen with the savage lust for blood who will carve the head from a human and eat and eat the flesh," said Mr. Nursey with a "can-you-beat-it" sort of look on his face.

SOLOMON ISLANDS

The traveller, on his return journey, visited the Solomon Islands and the many islands which dot the sea in that part of the world. Copra, made from the kernel of the dried coconut, is one of the chief exports and is used largely for lubricating oils.

"Oh, I just remembered—did you ever hear about the strange white race of natives who live in the untravelled parts of New Guinea?" asked Mr. Nursey as the reporter, stricken with writer's cramp, was about to pocket his pencil. "Yes, it's a fact. From Sidney to Port Moresby I travelled with Jack Hyde, noted anthropologist and explorer, who 18 months ago discovered this white-skinned tribe. One theory has it that they sprang from the ancient Babylonians. But nobody really knows, and I suppose it will always remain a mystery."

CHECK ON JOCKEYS

OTTAWA, June 1.—A check on the jockeys from the United States riding at Canadian tracks is being made, it was stated today at the immigration department. The object is to find out how many free lance jockeys from across the line are operating in Canada. When this information has been ascertained the department will come to a decision whether any action should be taken against them.

West Grid Heads Will Not Favor New Resolution

WINNIPEG, June 1.—Western Canada rugby football officials showed little favor for a resolution of the Alberta rugby football union opposing a Dominion grid final in the east.

The resolution adopted by the Alberta body Friday reads: "The Alberta Union goes on record as being opposed to Western Canada champions going east for the Dominion final unless ordered to do so by the Western Canada rugby football union."

Stan Pepler of Winnipeg, W.C.R.F.U. president, thought it not feasible to hold the Canadian final in the west owing to climatical and financial conditions.

"Even if Calgary won the Western title, I hardly think she could supply the necessary financial backing to bring a team there from the east," Pepler said.

Order-In-Council Signed Reducing Interest Rate

BONDHOLDERS IN EAST TO DISCUSS ALBERTA'S MOVE

Authorizing the reduction of interest on all Alberta securities to an average rate of two and one-half per cent. an Order-in-Council was signed on Saturday, according to Premier William Aberhart. Announcement of the interest reduction was made last Wednesday by Hon. Charles Cockroft. The Refunding Act passed at the last legislative session has not been proclaimed.

Simultaneously with this announcement comes word from Montreal that bondholders' and mortgage companies, bankers and investment dealers have met and they are to confer at a later date with a representative to come from bondholders in New York, another from England and still another in Western Canada, the whole to discuss the entire interest situation as it bears upon Alberta.

It is likely that one representative from the general meeting will visit this province and talk the situation over with the government.

From this meeting with the government an approach can be arranged to the Dominion government with a view to discussing interest, refunding and associated matters.

PREMIER PLEASED

"I am pleased to hear that the bondholders have met and I am satisfied that after they meet us and have the whole provincial financial position placed before them, they will realize that an interest slash is vital if the province is to live within its income and avoid borrowing for the future. I have no desire to act dictatorially and I am glad to have an opportunity of meeting the bondholders as I would like to feel we have their confidence," Premier Aberhart said.

REGINA, June 1—Saskatchewan is not going to arbitrarily cut the interest rates paid on bonds as is planned by Alberta, Premier W. J. Patterson, provincial treasurer, assured the Star in an interview Saturday. His statement was made when he was asked to comment on the announcement Friday by the Alberta government with reference to interest payments on outstanding bonds of that province.

CHEAPER GAS IN NORTHLAND THIS SEASON

Imperial Oil Chief Says Price Will be Cut 10 Cents

Good news to mining and transportation men in the far north was brought to the city Monday morning by William W. MacKinnon, Calgary executive of the Imperial Oil, in charge of operations at the Fort Norman wells. He is at the Macdonald.

Production boss at Norman, MacKinnon will fly north to open up the plant immediately.

Good news: gasoline will cost 10 cents per gallon less than now; new price, 54 cents per gallon, including tax.

The Norman well, which supplies the Mackenzie valley and the Arctic coast, will again produce gasoline and fuel oil for the northland's Diesels.

Police Court

The story of how a visitor to the city, under the influence of mirage water, walked into the yard of a policeman, asked for a taxi and found himself locked up in the cells of the police station on a charge of intoxication, shortly afterwards, was told in police court Monday. The accused, was dismissed by Magistrate A. H. Gibson who stated that he was of the opinion that he had tried his best to avoid causing anyone inconvenience.

Once in a while we read an item in the papers of how a person in an inebriated condition are picked up by citizens and taken home. They are complimented for doing so. In this case I feel that the accused, being a stranger in the city, did his best to avoid being a nuisance. Unfortunately he walked into the yard of the policeman instead of the ordinary citizen. John Smith, so I'll dismiss the case with a caution," said the magistrate.

Convicted on an assault charge, Alex M. Wilson, local truck driver, was fined $10 and costs or 10 days. Wilson is alleged to have threatened to kill Leo Buse with a shovel when Buse found him on his property digging earth. Wilson testified that he was going through the field as a short cut to another farmer near by and got stuck in the mud. He claimed that he was loading the earth into the back of the truck to give it more weight.

HOSPITAL FIRE AND DROWNING SHOCK NORTH

Dawson Creek Boy Drowns —Berwyn Hospital Completely Destroyed

A 15-year-old boy was drowned and a hospital destroyed by fire, according to reports received from the western Peace River territory Monday morning.

Frank Pongratz, 15, of Arras, near Dawson Creek, B.C., was drowned in the Cutbank river Sunday while swimming with a number of other people. He was swimming close to shore when he suddenly sank and did not come up again.

POLICE INVESTIGATE

Other swimmers were unable to locate him and sent for the B.C. police. Constables Devlin and Kinzi responding. The body was found by Sam Lehman just before police arrived.

At Berwyn, Alberta, the Women's Institute hospital and most of its equipment were destroyed by fire which started about 6 a.m. Monday. The patients were removed and none were injured.

$5,000 INSURANCE

There were eight beds, which were all occupied with some patients staying with nearby private residents.

Insurance on the building was $5,000, but the loss to the community was much greater than that. Dr. Matas, superintendent, lost all his instruments.

Temporary arrangement for care of the patients was made by Dr. Matas in his own home.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

After watching people go around with wistful looks on their faces and their tongues working overtime explaining what is wrong with the country, the B.I.R. decided to let them answer their own question by asking, "What does Edmonton need most?" Here is what some of them say:

FRANK SMITH, farmer from North of Edmonton: "Say the mosquitoes in this town are a fright! The city should make arrangements with the different garages and filling stations to have them save all the used oil, and then take that oil and scatter it on the pools and swamps around this city. That would kill the mosquitoes before they get big enough to buzz, and think of the scratching and slapping it would save us."

MIKE CUTCHER, pachyderm tycoon: "I think that Edmonton should have a big new gymnasium to give the kids a chance. The only one in the city now is the Y.M.C.A. and we could use a couple more. Let them develop themselves, and learn a little about wrestling and boxing for self-defence, not to make roughnecks out of them, but to give them confidence in themselves."

ART PICKERING, bread salesman: "A few more of these sunshelmets. They will make people think about the Ethiopian situation, and then maybe they'll do something about it."

J. HENDERSON, clerk: "Right at the moment we need some rain to drown the mosquitoes."

JOHN M. CLARK DEAD AGED 82

John M. Clark, 82, of 9530 106A avenue, died here Sunday afternoon. A resident of Edmonton for 25 years, he has been superintendent of the Department of Agriculture for the past 15 years.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. T. Bell of Edmonton, and Miss Margaret Clark of Victoria, B.C.; and four sons, Peter and Horace Clark of Summerside, P.E.I., T. T. Clark of Optuna, Sask., and W. I. Clark of Blackfalds, Alberta.

BULLETIN BOYS HOLD PICNIC

The Bulletin carrier organization stepped into the limelight Sunday, when the boys were guests of the Bulletin management, at the first picnic of the year, held at Elk Island park. It was a great day for the boys, the ball game, umpired by the genial Mr. Robert J. Robb business manager of the Bulletin drew it's share of fun and loud applause from the numerous spectators gathered about to witness the battle.

A sports program led the day's parade of activities and it was here that many "promising" athletes were brought into the glow of old man spotlight.

The "winnahs" as they were tabulated by Mr. Brown of main office, were: Allan Magnuson, Cameron Adams and Jim Barnett in their respective classes. The grand aggregate was taken by Allan Mugeston, with a grand total of 21 points.

It was an enjoyable trip, and the fast disappearing pop and ice cream will back that statement. It was a real drawing card for most of the "wee" boys.

The trip was held under the watchful supervision of H. J. Mc-Coy, city circulation manager; A. Brown, J. Adams, D. McAllister and L. Graham. Two Midland Rapid Transit buses proved ample transportation to and from the city.

STEWART-IRVINE BURIED MONDAY

William Stewart-Irvine, 9518 103 street, 80-year-old Edmonton resident, and former British consul to Mexico, who died Friday, May 28, following a lingering illness, was buried Sunday afternoon. The funeral service at Andrew Brothers funeral chapel was conducted by Canon E. Pierce-Goulding. Interment took place in the family plot at Beechmount cemetery.

Mr. Stewart-Irvine's death followed that of his wife by only eight days. He is survived by one son, Dr. of Edmonton, and a daughter, Mrs. Z. Mellen, of Cobblehill, Vancouver Island.

Lucien Maynard, minister without portfolio in the provincial government, and J. H. Unwin, S.C. member of the legislature for Edmonton, are leaving on Monday for Veteran to address a meeting.

C. J. Baker, of Toronto, field manager of the Burwash Yellowknife gold properties, arrived in the city Monday and made plans to fly north.

William Irvine, Jr., son of William Irvine, former M.P. for Wetaskiwin, is one of several members of the municipal affairs department dismissed from the provincial government service.

20 RELIEFERS GO ON STRIKE HERE MONDAY

Refuse to Work at Root House When Dissatisfied With Foreman

Dissatisfaction with the foreman in charge of the work resulted in 20 relief workers engaged in the construction of a vegetable root house at 91 street and 92 avenue going on strike Monday morning. The men refused to work until after they had turned out for work. Commissioners have requested Relief Manager H. F. McKee to make a full report on the matter.

It was reported that the foreman had refused to take part in the "potato patch strike" a year ago, and that now he would put in the work under him at the root house had refused to work for this reason. It was also declared that one person had been responsible for agitating and promoting the strike.

The relief department's standing rule provides that unemployed who refuse to work do not receive relief allowances. The workers in question, however, had received their allowances for the week before the walk-out.

LOCAL COLLEGE HOLDS RECITAL

Largely attended by an interested audience the recital of pupils of Alberta College Saturday showed progress made by the students during the year in musical and vocal courses. Dr. F. S. McCall, principal of the College and Herbert Wild, musical director, expressed appreciation of the large attendance.

Two diplomas were presented to students who have obtained their associate degree at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. They were Vivian Adams, A.T.C.M. and Edith McArthur, A.T.C.M., Harold Miller L.S.R.M., organist and composer, who was unable to attend, was also the recipient of a diploma.

A feature of the evening was the singing in Greek, Latin, Syrian "Nearer My God to Thee," by Rev. R. B. Stainer, an Indian minister in the Indian mission fields of Alberta who was a guest at the recital. Mr. Stainer said Dr. McCall, has served as a missionary for 30 years and will be superannuated this year.

The program follows in full: "Momi Waltz" Bohm; Clarinet Trio, "Reverie" Raymond Compton, (pupils of Alberta Hale); "The Scarlet Sarafand," Evelyn McCartney; "Legende," Ray Olsen, "Gigue," Roderick Cuthbert; "Pierrot's Serenade," Betty Sandergarth; "I Love Thee," Princess Tayino, (pupils of Mrs. Beaudry Leather); "Tree and Pastorale," Ruthana Morgan; "Lullaby," Wolf; "Bird Song at Eventide," Margaret Watson, (pupils of Madame J. C. Bugnet); "Heather Bells," Eva Sallo, (pupil of Veronica Mary Hunt); "Serenade," Grace McClure, (pupil of Carmen Airth); "Cradle Song," Suneko Uyehara, (pupil of Irene E. Little); "Cavatina," Teddy Sharman, (pupil of E. Kingswood); "March," Adella Chapman, (pupil of Doris Heath); "Scherzo in E flat Minor," Edith McArthur, (pupil of J. H. Williams); "Serenade in C Sharp Minor," Lawrence Howard, (pupil of Herbert Wild); "The Two Mites," Mary Violet South; "Way," Hilda Lucas, (pupils of Mrs. Alice Lucas).

Life Work Now At End

REV. FR. DESMARAIS, O.M.I., whose 85 years, most of them in the service of his church, reads like a history of northern Canada, has come to the end of his workaday trail at Athabasca. He is retiring to the St. John's Home in Strathcona.

In 1886 he was headquartered at Grouard, at that time only a small Hudson's Bay post. During the days of the hectic Klondyke rush he hit the trail of '98 and served as spiritual adviser to the Checkchakes and sourdoughs of Dawson City.

The year 1909 found him stationed permanently at Athabasca where he worked out the balance of his active life in the service of the church.

MAN KILLED BY TRUCK ON JASPER ROAD

Alex. Stoyanowski Fatally Injured as He Tumbles Under Wheels

Alex. Stoyanowski, 25, of Wildwood, suffered fatal injuries when he slipped off the side of a truck on which he was riding and was crushed beneath the wheels on the Jasper highway shortly after 5 p.m. Friday.

Rushed to the city in an unconscious condition on the C.N.R. express, which was flagged by R.C.M.P., the injured man was admitted to the Royal Alexandra hospital at 10 p.m. and died at 3:45 a.m. Saturday. The body was sent to Evansburg, where an inquest was held Monday afternoon. Stoyanowski is survived by a wife and two children.

According to reports, Stoyanowski had just finished work and boarded the back of one of the work trucks. He was sitting on the side when he is alleged to have fallen over and somehow rolled underneath the wheels of the truck. The driver hearing him scream stopped the car just as it was passing over him and the wheels took grip on his chest, crushing him into the ground.

HARRY COHEN BACK AFTER AMAZON TRIP

Brings Back Shrunken Head of Native From Primitive Ecuador

"When you see them running around without any clothes on, they're dangerous," says Harry Cohen, local business tycoon, and manager of the Army and Navy Store here.

He was referring to the natives of South America, and he speaks with authority, for he has just returned from a three-month tour of "the other dark continent," which took him to many strange places and showed him some of the most unusual and weirdest things in the world.

Up the rivers into the uncharted interior, into the tropical jungles across the Andes on a train where the gradients are so steep that the engine uses cogwheels on a cogged track, back again by airplane, flying over the ruggedest mountains in the world at a height of 18,000 feet, where there are oxygen tubes so that passengers can breathe, then down on two-wheel carts across the deserts and the plains. Such were some of the experiences that Mr. Cohen had.

He left New York on the pleasure liner "Santa Lucia," on Friday, the 13th of March, but bad luck seems don't worry him. On the same cruise were his friends, Allan Lehman, of the Wall Street brokerage firm of Lehman Brothers, and J. Edgar Pew, millionaire member of the United States Oil Board.

One of the strangest things that Mr. Cohen picked up on his trip was one of the famous shrunken heads of the Zhuncha headhunters of the Jibaros Indians from the jungles in the interior of Ecuador near the headwaters of the Amazon. Once the head of a man who stood well over six feet without socks, it is now scarcely larger than the fist of a man.

INQUISITION BY CENSUS SQUAD OPENS IN CITY

Tell All To These Boys — They Respect Your Confidences

Nate Campbell, the fact and figure, question and answer field marshall ordered his corps into action today and thirty-seven "Inquiring Reporters" of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics started knocking on doors to stake a burning information-thirst.

It's the beginning of the federal government's prairie census drive and before its over statistical facts and figures, enough to fill a few libraries will be herded into Ottawa.

TIRELESS QUESTIONERS

Nate Campbell's enumerators are probably the most tirelessly inquisitive gents that citizens will ever be privileged to meet. They have a mere 192 questions to pop at agries and 37 with which to ply urbanites.

They'll want to know just about everything the average citizen considers is private business. Your age, race, mother tongue, your wages over a thirteen-week period, your occupation, the classification of your dwelling, the value of your vegetable garden production, the money you made from selling so many eggs laid by so many hens of such and such a breed are just a few the boys will use as "openers" before the cross-examination reaches the personal stage.

HERE'S THE RUB

The rub comes when the matter of unemployment and relief is to be popped to the populace. Citizens are urged to answer fully and correctly as Ottawa needs reliable information for possible readjustment of the western relief grants.

The information is secret; Nate Campbell's deputies being sworn to sphinxy silence "or out of school." If you have out-smarted the income taxers they won't catch up to you through any information you give the census man. There's no chance for a leak—there can't be for a loose mouth in the census service is closed with a stiff penalty.

NOBODY OVERLOOKED

Citizens escaping personal inquisition by Nate Campbell's squad are not being over-looked by Ottawa. Every home will be visited, homes and the law says the papers must be filled in and mailed to the capital at Ottawa by June $100 and costs or three months.

Census forms disclose that the mother tongue is determined by the maternal parent and racial origin from the father.

Diphtheria Drive In Full Swing

The drive against disease, sponsored by the medical inspector of schools, swings into the final stage Tuesday when inoculation against diphtheria will begin at the Civic block. Vaccinations have been carried on all spring and now the city health authorities are ready to give preventative treatment for diphtheria. All those wishing to be inoculated are requested to apply at the Civic block.

Forest Fires Rage In Saskatchewan

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., June 1 —Forest fires raging during the current heat wave have destroyed two saw mills and more than a million feet of saw timber in the Foxford area, 35 miles northeast of here, local provincial natural resources officials reported Saturday. No lives were lost.

CHARLES GORDON

Mr. Charles Gordon, 55-year-old lumber merchant and former mayor of Vegreville, who died here May 29, was buried Monday afternoon. The funeral was held from Andrews Brothers' chapel to the Mount Pleasant cemetery, Rev. C. G. Stone, of First Baptist church, officiated. Mr. Gordon was well known throughout the north.

CALGARY TRAIL WORK TO BEGIN ON WEDNESDAY

Fallow States That Men Will be Paid in Cash Only

Setting of camps for reconstruction of the Edmonton-Wetaskiwin section of the main No. 1 highway commenced on Monday and dirt will be moving by Wednesday, with 300 men employed on the job by the end of this week, according to Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

The minister also announced that work on progressing satisfactorily on the Jasper highway and the 90 miles of grading now under construction would be completed by July 1, as would 15 miles of gravelling.

The minister also stated that no arrangements had been made to pay the men on either the Jasper or Edmonton-Wetaskiwin projects in anything but cash.

"Nothing has been done so far in the matter of paying men with prosperity bonds," declared the minister. "We are paying in cash and only yesterday I signed a payroll of $16,000. In any case, if a system of prosperity bonds is introduced, there will be no compulsory features about it, acceptance of them by the workers being voluntary. If we have requests for these bonds, will be glad to supply them.

"Some of the workers have not seen anything in the way of money for so long that they are glad of the chance of receiving some remuneration."

Dealing specifically with the Jasper highway, the Minister declared that there were five outfits now at work, one shovel outfit, one dragline, five elevating graders and one dump trimmer outfit.

300 MEN WORKING

At present, 175 men are engaged on this project and it is contemplated that this will be about doubled, bringing the total employed to approximately 300. There are about 100 trucks working.

No difficulty has been experienced in obtaining men, declared the Minister, approximately 1000 registering for the work.

All this work will be carried out from the total available of $300,000 made up of a legislative grant of $562,000 plus the $400,000 allocated by the Dominion government for highways work in this province.

Wages being paid range from 40 cents for laborers to 70 cents for foremen.

WALLACE SORRY TO LEAVE CITY

"I will be very sorry to leave Alberta, but it is one of those things in life which just have to be done," said Dr. R. C. Wallace, until recently president of the University of Alberta, when he returned to the city Monday from a visit to Eastern Canada, where he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, and visited his new associates at Queen's university.

We considered all aspects of the matter very carefully and then made our decision," said Dr. Wallace. As I declined further comment, Dr. Wallace, who has been president of the university for the past eight years will leave the city about the first of September, accompanied by his wife and family.

GRADS TRIUMPH IN THRILL LADEN SECOND GAME

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY

It Was a Classic Finish Saturday—Lions Face Tough Problem In Fouls—Diamond Jottings

Those fans who were lucky enough to see Saturday night's game between the Grads and Eldorado Lions saw a basketball classic and more than one of them will recount it in years to come to their grandchildren. It was sport in its most appealing form—a dramatic battle against time that was won. In those last few tense minutes the fans lived hours of torrid suspense. Perhaps both teams were slightly below par in comparison with other games which they have played, but nobody gives a hoot about that. No matter how good they were, no two teams could stage a more thrilling finish.

Noel MacDonald's play happened to be the one that caught the spotlight. It was a grand effort—one of the very finest, but every other Grad shared in making it possible. That priceless basket wouldn't have been worth a plugged nickel if Noel's team-mates hadn't fought every inch of the way to make the score what it was. It is this fighting spirit that never quits which is the difference between world champions and runners-up.

While thousands of Albertans thrilled to Saturday night's finish, out at the arena and beside radio sets from one end of the province to the other, it must not be forgotten that the Eldorado girls gave an exhibition which has seldom, if ever, been equalled here. It was clean, fast and brilliant. Hazel Walker and Frances Williams played a game which was a revelation to fans who have been watching the world's champions for years.

For the sake of fans who did not see these first two games and are forming their opinions on radio and press reports, it must be pointed out that the number of personal fouls called on the Lions must not be taken as an indication that they are deliberately committing them. The invaders are all tall and rangy, towering over most of the Grads and outweighing them by a good many pounds. With such a difference in size, it is impossible to avoid personals altogether. Often a Lion topples over a diminutive Grad and is called where there would have been no personal had both girls been the same size.

As a rule dirty work is not done where the play is being made. When teams are out to get each other it is done behind the play, on which the referees' attention is centred. So far there has not been the least suspicion of such tactics in this series. The Lions take the decisions exactly like the Grads, without so much as a question.

It is hard to compare one team with another unless they are both in action together, but there are hundreds of Edmonton fans who believe that the Eldorado Lions are the finest team to ever play the Grads here. Coach Percy Page is inclined to agree with them, at least to the extent that the Lions are the equals of any squad to show here.

In passing it is only fair to point out that one of the toughest obstacles to the invading girls is the disparity in size between them and the majority of Grads. In every game the Lions lose a couple of their scores via the personal foul route and, as explained before, this would not happen if the girls were the same height and weight. No reflection whatever is cast on either Harry Viney or James Taylor. Both referees realize the difficulty the Lions are up against, but the rules are there and they have to be called.

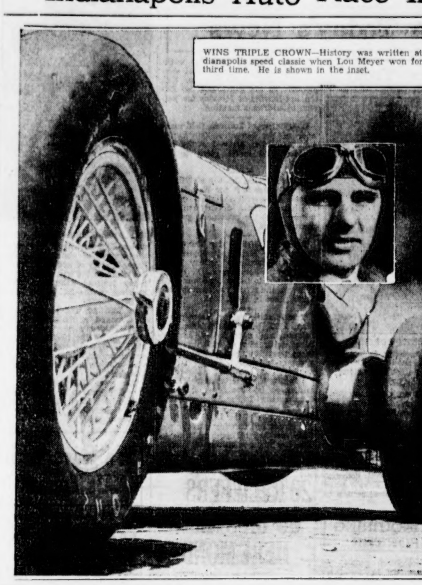

Jottings From Alberta Diamonds

Dodger Lewis' Calgary semi-pro team is playing under the name of "Mustangs." The Dodger is strengthening his mound staff with "Lefty" D'Aoust, University of California pitcher who tried out this spring with the Seattle Missions of the Pacific Coast League. Dodger Lewis pitched his own opening game at Calgary against Lethbridge, got 13 strike-outs, allowed eight hits and lost 4-0. Hodges is also said to be importing Frank Earhart, a southpaw chucker from Tyler, California . . . Red Nicol, who once played here for Webb King's Bulls at Boyle Street, is at present catching for Lethbridge.

Ball rivalry in Lethbridge is getting red hot as the semi-pros battle with the amateur Miners for patronage. The Miners challenged the pros to a two-day series for the city title. Hodges hedged with the demand for a $100 side-bet and Andy Pisko of the Miners promptly accepted. It is now up to Hodges. This series will be keenly watched up here since it will give the first indication of how good the pros are in the south. Last season the Miners were beaten three straight by the Ponoka Panthers and it is said that the coalmen are not as strong this season as they were then.

Incidentally, central Alberta baseball fans will be interested in knowing that Eddie Crellin, who played in the outfield for Ponoka last season, has been signed by Clint Hodges. Eddie was not considered fast enough to be held at Ponoka again this season. Pennington, who was on the mound staff of the Army and Navy Cubs of Edmonton when they won the western Canada championship in 1929, is the man who was always getting the worst of the breaks, is doing very well at Moose Jaw just now. He beat Northgate, N.D., 4-3 the other day.

Louis Meyer Roars To Third Victory In Indianapolis Auto Race In Record Time

Is First To Win Classic Three Times

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1. — Accomplishing what no other driver before has done, Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., roared to his third victory in the 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis motor speedway Saturday in record-breaking time and with a record-smashing crowd of 166,000 spectators cheering him.

Meyer drove his four-cylinder special the full 500 miles without relief and made only two quick stops. He covered the distance in 4:35:03.10 to average 109.069 miles an hour, breaking the previous record of 106.240 miles an hour hung up by Kelly Petillo, colorful Italian of Huntington Park, Calif., in winning North America's speed classic last year.

WON 1928-33

Meyer won before in 1928 and 1933. Another Californian, 27-year-old Ted Horn of Los Angeles, finished second, nearly three miles behind Meyer, with Mauri Rose of Dayton, Ohio, third, 7½ miles back. George "Doc" Mackenzie of Eddington, Pa., was fourth. Petillo driving the last 128 miles as relief, piloted Mackenzie's car over the finish line. Chet Miller of Detroit, was fifth and Ray Plxley of Fullerton, Calif., was sixth.

Fifteen of the 32 starters finished and only five ran out of gasoline which was restricted to 37.5 gallons for the 500 miles.

Meyer earned about $35,000 of which $20,000 was first prize money with the additional coming from lap prizes and cheques from accessory manufacturers.

SNATCHES LEAD

He snatched the lead at the 225-mile mark when Babe Stapp of Los Angeles and Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis ran into trouble. The car driven by Stapp, tearing along the back stretch at terrific speed, broke a rear axle forcing him out of the race. Shaw had to stop to replenish his fuel supply and Meyer bounded into the lead.

He retained it for only a short time, however, when he was forced to stop for gasoline. He quickly regained it and with a terrific burst of speed that carried him around the 2½-mile brick asphalt track at a rate of 115 miles per hour. He clung to the lead to the finish.

Riders Not Alone Smashing Records

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1. — While grimy-faced speed aces were smashing records Saturday in the gruelling 500-mile auto race on Indianapolis' famous speedway, science, with a camera and a network of wires, was setting a record, too.

Just 16 minutes after the wave of a checkered flag signalled Louis Meyer's victory, an Associated Press picture of the race finish was moving over a portable wirephoto transmitter to newspapers from coast to coast.

Never before had any picture been transmitted by wire in such a short time after a camera recorded a race event.

While fans were still leaving the speedway, the picture was in newspaper offices in the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, catching late afternoon papers in the east and early morning editions in the east.

Brilliant Shooting By Noel MacDonald Leads To 37-35 Win

NEXT GAME AT ARENA TONIGHT

By JACK KELLY

With perhaps the most dramatic finish that any Grad team has ever made, the Page machine snatched a 37-35 victory from the Eldorado Lions here Saturday night just as the timer's gun ended play.

It was a long shot by Noel MacDonald that brought the hair-raising victory. Time after time the Grads, driving with everything they had, tied the Lions only to have the invaders pull ahead of them again. As Timer Roy Halliburton's finger tightened on the tigger of his gun to end the game, the score was tied at 35-35. Noel MacDonald was racing down the outside and sent a long, looping shot at the basket in a final desperate effort. It dropped through the hemp and the crowd went roaring wild and hysterical.

In fact Halliburton's gun boomed a split fraction of a second after the ball left Noel's hands and before it reached the basket, but under the rules it counts.

STRAIN SEVERE

Noel had put every last grain of her strength in that final drive down the floor to beat the gun. As the report echoed, she dropped in her tracks, completely exhausted. It was Coach Percy Page and Assistant Coach Arnold Henderson who told her that the effort had won the game as they picked her up and rushed her to the dressing room.

NOEL MacDONALD

Bedlam broke loose. Fans leaped from the rails and swarmed over the floor, yelling like wild Indians. Hats were thrown, women went into hysterics, alternately crying and laughing, friends and relatives hugged the Grads who were almost too tired to walk off the floor. The Eldorado Lions, gallant sports-women, were the first to clasp their victors' hands.

THRILLING FINISH

It was a finish such as the old arena has not seen for many years—the sort of stuff you think comes only in fiction.

Today the series for the Underwood trophy emblem of the ladies' international basketball championship, is even with one win apiece and tonight these two great teams meet again for the third time at 9 p.m.

After a short rest in the dressing room, Noel MacDonald was completely recovered and she will be ready for tonight's vital clash. The other Grads are also ready and eager for the whistle.

NOEL BRILLIANT

It was the brilliant shooting of Noel MacDonald and a slight general increase in field accuracy by the whole team that brought the victory. Or, if you analyze the game from the cold figures of the official box score, it may have been the decrease in the Lions' field accuracy that made the final score what it was.

The Grads had 34 field tries and made 14 of them for a percentage of slightly over 41. While their accuracy in the opening game was 25 per cent. On the other hand the Lions shot 75 times at the basket from the field and made 16 of them count. This gives a percentage of 22 against a percentage of 26 in the first game. On the other hand the Grads were decidedly off form on their penalty throws. They had 22 of these shots at the hoop and got only seven points. Eldorado was awarded seven penalty throws and made three of them count.

PLAY SMARTLY

Flashing a smooth form that made the Grad supporters perspire freely, the invading girls took the lead in the first quarter and were riding on a two point lead at 8-6 when the gun went. By the end of the second quarter, the Page squad had overhauled the Lions and the count was 18-18. But in the third quarter the Eldorado team forged ahead and moved the count up to 28-25 as they opened the final period.

The Grads opened up and started to drive that finally snatched victory for them. With only three minutes to go, Babe Belanger dribbled down the floor, passed to Page of orange and black—shot and tied the count at 33-33.

The Lions struck back just as quickly. On the first play from the tip-off the invaders sent the ball rocketing down the floor on a long-passing combination and dropped it through the iron ring. A groan went up from the crowded arena that sounded like a new tax was being imposed.

STARTED DRIVE

Then Noel MacDonald started the drive that won. She got a break along the side, dribbled for a few steps and threw with her left arm. The ball hit the backboards, rolled for a second on the ring, and dropped through the net.

The Lions took time out. Both teams were winded and just about all in.

Less than a minute was left when Referee Viney's whistle started play. Checks were clamped down tight and play was maintained near the centre of the floor. To stop the Grads on the hand, Bel Halliburton pointed his gun into the sawdust. Noel MacDonald got the ball, staked out a claim for long on the overhead throw—and the rest is now part of the Grads' stirring book of records.

Game Tonight Crucial Tilt In Cup Series

Tonight out at the arena the Grads meet the Eldorado Lions in the third game of their three out of five series for the women's international basketball championship. And it is just as vital to both teams to win this one as it was to win Saturday's classic.

The team that wins tonight gets a leverage that will likely determine the championship.

Coach Page feels that his team will get that win, explaining that they have not yet shown in this series the form which they have been displaying in practice. He feels that they are certain to reach their peak form at least once in the series and he thinks it will be tonight.

Play will start at 9:00 p.m. as it did Saturday.

ORANGE CRUSH TEAM DEFEATS SILVERS, 12-3

In a game which was closer and more interesting than the score would indicate, the Orange Crush Girls' softball team took the Silver Lakes into camp by a 12-3 score, at Silver Lake Saturday.

Silver Lakes are the new entry in the City Intermediate league and showed that they would be a threat for honors with a few more practices under their belts.

Dora Marian was the star of the game as she struck out 16 Silver Lake batters, including for the Orange Crush crew.

MUTTART PATS MEET CENTRALS TONIGHT

The Edmonton Ladies' Softball League will offer to large fans following the second scheduled fixture this evening at 6:30 at Boyle Street Park. The game will be with the newly former Centrals, coached by Johnny Lupul, and the Muttart Lumber Pats.

The game tonight must start on time to allow basketball enthusiasts to get to the Arena for the contest there.

Crowd Turns Out To See Ball Club

WETASKIWIN, June 1.—A large crowd of baseball fans turned out to see the Wetaskiwin Indians work out on Sunday afternoon. "Mut" Anderson, catcher and manager, put the boys through their paces, and his machine is a smooth running aggregation that promises a class of ball such as central Alberta has not played before. The Calgary club will have to go some if it is to get the Brewery trophy for which they have a challenge filed.

The line-up for Tuesday's game with Ponoka will be: Barbettini, 2b; Lawson, c; Kain, 3b; Anderson, c; Goodchild, s.s.; Knott, lb.; Simas, r.f.; Lanipe, p.; Rattlesnake, p., and Morgan and Clelland. The right and left-hand shooters are evenly divided. Rattlesnake has not yet accepted Seattle's offer.

Lift McMullen Trophy For Inter-Club Play as Ruperts Miss Grand Slam

Mayfair Golf and Country Club added the McMullen trophy emblematic of the city inter-club championship for 1936 to its growing list of victories over the weekend when the Prince Rupert shotmakers failed to score the grand slam over Highlands that was their only hope of overhauling the south side aces.

Municipal and Country Club teams won and lost heavily but there was only a quarter of a point difference in the total score for both "A" and "B" squads. Playing at the Country Club, the Municipal "A" team failed to made a single point while their hosts counted three and a quarter. In the meantime at their home course, Municipal "B" team was handing the invading Country clubbers a 4 to 1 setback.

Rupert and Highlands also fought a close struggle with a one and a quarter point margin piled up by the Prince Rupert "A's" turning the table.

MAYFAIR PAIR TAKE TROPHY

Proctor and Matthews Defeat Calgarians 5 and 4 For Eaton Silverware

Special to Edmonton Bulletin

CALGARY, June 1.—Edmonton's first challenge in quest of the Eaton foursome trophy golf succeeded as the silverware packed in a beautiful mahogany case, is now enroute to capital city in the hands custody of Bobby Proctor and Whit Matthews, and will repose at the Mayfair Country Club as long as they defend it.

Proctor won the first hole with trophy at the Earl Grey golf course Sunday afternoon when they defeated Buster Lochhead and Gizza Gizella 5 and 4.

DECISIVE VICTORY

With Proctor playing par golf and his partner coming to his assistance on the fifth and fourteenth, the northerners turned in a decisive victory. Played under sultry skies, and with a light northeast wind blowing, the northerners went to work early in quest of the silverware. Proctor in particular playing a class of golf that would have meant victory in any company.

Proctor won the first hole with a birdie 4. He won the second with a par 4. Proctor made it three up when he won the third with a par 4. They halved the fourth and Matthews won the fifth with a par four. Proctor carded another birdie on the sixth and the northerners were five up.

HALVED NEXT THREE

They halved the next three holes, Matthews hit the pin with his tee shot on the fifth, but only had it short putt. They halved the tenth, eleventh and twelfth. Goodrich won the thirteenth, the locals' final victory. The match ended on the fourteenth when Matthews sank a 10-foot putt for a birdie 3.

Bobbie Henderson and Bill Greer of the Regal Club, Calgary, are the last mainlanders and only ones to defeat Proctor and Whit Matthews in the Mayfair Country Club at Edmonton this week-end. All challenges must be sent in Tom Boyd, care of Calgary Municipal Club.

CITY INTER-CLUB BOWLING JUNE 3

Johnson Star As Mates Win From Hearts

By JACK DEAKIN

Callie opposition in the finals of the Vets-Martin cup competition for first division soccer, was decided Saturday evening as Civics romped through the ranks of the Hearts for an 8-0 victory. By virtue of this triumph, Civics won their way to the final bracket in the cup final, the other portion of which is occupied by Callies as a result of that squad's triumph over Norwood Royals early last week.

Featuring the Civic victory was Curly Johnson, clever Civic center forward, who scored no less than five goals and was a star performer in gaining the other three, although he was not on the scoring end of them.

SHOOK OFF THREAT

Hearts started out with a great rush. The fleet-footed young team raced desperately up and down the field and gave the Civics many anxious moments. On two occasions in the first 15 minutes, the Hearts should have scored, once as Shaw cut in close, giving the ball to Greenlee who missed his kick with only Mann to beat. After this bitter, but unsuccessful siege of the hearts, Civics shook off their threat and settled down to business with grim determination.

Curly Johnson netted the first from close in, and four minutes later Bobby Graham scored number two. Hearts' attack was of the rush and shoot order and, with a little more steadiness might have reduced the leeway. But back came the Civics for a brace more markers, Johnson getting one from an off-side position and just a few minutes before time Jimmy Graham registered the fourth tally.

LACKED ACCURACY

Hearts had better control of the game as play started in the second half, but again lacked accuracy in their shooting and their efforts were worthless.

The Civics again took over the game, coming back with a clever rush and it was only as the result of some smart goalkeeping by Kerr that kept the score down.

But poor clearing in front of Kerr allowed Civics to boost their lead to a commandable margin as Johnson registered a "hat trick" and bounded his score to a grand total of five. Three times in quick order Johnson booted the ball safely behind his net.

Hearts tried hard to open up the game, but could do nothing against the Civic defence and Tom Lewis drove the eighth and last goal of the game into the uprights.

THE LINEUPS

Civics—Mann; Geldhart, Barson; Neas, Lewis, McLean, Ross, J. Graham, Johnson, R. Graham, Anderson.

Hearts—Kerr; Johnson, Funnell; McPhie, Pickles, Samis, Shaw, Hyslop, Whitely, Greenlees, Denim.

Referee—Gordon.

Next game: Hearts vs. Royals on Wednesday at Diamond Park, and it will be a league game.

Klem Kusek Challenged By Brentano

"Blonde Terror" Sees No Reason Why He Should Accept Bout

After his bout with Klem Kusek here Friday, Jack Brentano was a very furious man and as a result of his disgust at Kusek's shady tactics in the joust issued a challenge to the latter to meet him in a bout here in Edmonton.

That challenge still goes and Brentano reiterated it before leaving for the States. Immediately Promoter Mike Cutcher contacted Kusek, but the latter gave to understand that he saw no reason why he should oppose Brentano in such a bout. He held that he had beaten him once and that it was enough.

Brentano however is so sure that he is Kusek's master that he is willing to put his Silver Canadian Championship belt at stake.

If this bout was arranged it would consist of eight ten-minute rounds for the best two out of three falls. There is one minute rest between each round. If a fall is registered it ends that round no matter how long it has gone. The wrestlers do not leave the ring during the entire bout.

Should this battle take place it will be supported by two bouts between two wrestlers from across the line and would give fans a fine card.

Officials Gather In Confab Tonight

Officials of the Edmonton and District Football Association will hold a meeting of the council tonight at the Motor Car Supply offices and it will get under way at 8.00 o'clock.

Many important problems will be discussed, the leading question being the setting of the date for the Vets-Martin final, or to decide whether or not the teams wish to start their playoffs in the Dominion Challenge playdowns.

It is said that ground squirrels are potent carriers of deadly plague germs.

JOEY WINNER FEATURE RACE AT WHITTIER

Edmonton Horse Places First in Third Whittier Race Saturday

WINNIPEG, June 1.—There was an enormous attendance at Whittier Park Saturday afternoon. Every available point of vanatge was occupied before the first race. The Whittier Park Handicap brought out six, and was as good a race as one would wish to see. The Jacques entry of Joey and Happy Jester was "plunged" on by the heavy bettors until it was less than 1 to 3 chance. From a good start Help Yourself lead Happy Jester with Marcus Docile next and Joey well back.

Things started in orthodox fashion by the favorite winning the first race amid general rejoicing. Dupre sent Iron Knight smartly to the front and nothing bothered him enroute.

FAVORITE WINS JUMP

Six turned out for the jumping contest with the Munroe entry of Dr. Millerick and Never Late favorite. The former, presumably main hope of the pair, fell when in the lead and Davaar went on with Never Late second. With only one hurdle to negotiate Never Late was sent up with a long run to wear down Davaar and win a pretty race.

Owner J. Smith of Edmonton sent out Bobbie Thomson to do battle in the third with W. Cain in the saddle. The old warrior shot away and with Mr. Cain wise enough to sit perfectly still the issue was soon beyond doubt.

PEACE TOKEN VICTOR

The thread of winning favorites was picked up again in the fourth, when Peace Token worked up to the flying leader, Jungle Chick, in the straight, and got past near home.

Still again did the customers besiege the mutuel payoff wickets to celebrate the victory of an outstanding favorite. Epernay was exactly "even money" with the surprisingly good odds of $4.20 for a place and $3.75 for the show.

A hair-raising finish between five horses marked the conclusion of the seventh contest. After Shasta Dream had lead all the way she was caught on the line by a quartette of opponents and lost the purse by inches. was only fourth, in fact.

The favorite French Maid, made no mistake in winning the final by lengths, making six such during the afternoon.

Winnipeg's Wonder Horse

RUSHAWAY, WITH J. LONGDON UP, OWNER AL G. TARN, WINNIPEG, AT RIGHT

One of the most remarkable achievements in the modern history of the turf was scored by this horse, Rushaway, which won the $12,000 added Illinois Derby, Friday, May 22, spent a night on the train and won the $15,000 Latonia Derby the next day. The horse, which seemed to race all the better by reason of its 300-mile journey, is owned by Al G. Tarn, of Winnipeg, who is pictured with his durable racer.

Week-End Cricket

JUNIOR MATCH

At the Golf Links on Saturday, King Edward School and the Saracens played to a tie game, the final score standing at 40 runs each. This is the first time for quite some time that two teams have been known to play a tie.

K. Collins and J. Gallimore were the only King Edward batsmen to reach double figures, but they played very well for their 13 and 11 respectively. Collins was also the most successful bowler for his side, capturing 5 wickets for 12 runs. Special mention should be made of the improvement in fielding on the part of the King Edward team since the beginning of the season.

E. P. Jones played a brilliant game, knocking up 25 runs before being out lbw to Collins. B. Quinlan bowled remarkably well to take three wickets for no runs.

FUSILIERS VS. WANDERERS

The Fusiliers won their third game on Saturday by defeating the Wanderers by 57 runs. Dennis Hendra, the youngest member of the club was the big gun on this occasion. The Fusiliers batted first; 28 being on the board when Windsor was caught and bowled by Parker. Hendra went on to make 34 before being smartly taken at point. Edwards was the only other batsman to get double figures and the Wanderers bowlers did well to hold them to 104 runs.

After the interval the Wanderers opened their innings with Parker and Hargreaves, Edwards and Windsor bowling. With 6 up Hargreaves returned a low one to Edwards who held it safely. The next wicket fell to Inglis by way of a smart catch by D. Hendra. Here a change in the bowling was made, Dennis Hendra taking the ball. It seemed to the writer that the batsmen were too confident and did not treat their younger player's deliveries with sufficient respect. The result was a complete rout. His first over, read 8 runs for 1 wicket. In his next 3 overs he had sent 6 batsmen back to the pavilion for 10 runs. A remarkable performance reminiscent of G. Paine's deadly work in the Calgary game last Monday, and probably the best analysis in league cricket this season, Young Dennis topped his bowling performance by running up the highest score in the game, 34 runs. A continuance of this form with bat and ball should make the selection committee sit up and take notice.

EDMONTON vs CIVIL SERVICE

At the Golf Course pitch on Saturday Edmonton won their league game from the Civil Service by 35 runs with two wickets in hand. A. T. Neale batted quite steadily for the Civils and made top score of 38 runs and nearly carried his bat. Young Evan Jones, one of the juniors, not only made 18 but included in his score three fours. Brinley Rees also put lots of pep into his inning. Alec Rowley and E. Diggins each took three wickets while Tiplin and Weaver each got two. The hitters of the Edmonton team had rather a good afternoon: Sasche's 41, while being a bit lucky was a good effort and it did not take him long to run up his runs. Stewart, Tiplin and King also scored rapidly for their 19, 22 and 13 apiece. Jim Weaver was just getting going nicely when Stan Fidler fooled him badly with a googly. For the Civils, Les Brown, Stan Fidler and Evan Jones each took two wickets.

After the game a most pleasing, sporting gesture took place in the pavilion when C. A. Davidson, captain of the Civil Service and without a doubt a very fine sportsman presented Jim Weaver with an exceptionally fine bat to take to the Old Country with him when he leaves with the Canadian Cricket team shortly. It was a mighty fine gift and one that Jim Weaver accepted with the keenest appreciation and one and all hope he will be able to use it with considerable success.

GREAT GOLF

By ART KRENZ

Sometimes a player who complains that the greens are too hard, and that it is impossible to stop the ball on them, is doing the proper thing to get backspin on the ball—hitting it before the clubhead bites into the turf—yet his ball seems to run considerably.

The reason for this is that he rolls his wrists into the shot, producing hookspin on the ball.

By turning the hands over so that the back of the left hand is upward a player can prevent this [illegible] the ball on the green.

DEAKIN DECLARES

Saturday's Football Game Provides Much For Discussion

OFFSIDE RULE

Smith Versus Hughes Is Golf Spectacle, Fun Festival

By JACK DEAKIN

THE off-side rule is still much of a problem to many soccer fans and some contestants, or so one would be led to believe over hearing the flow of conversation at Saturday's soccer match at Diamond Park in which Civics took an 8-0 triumph over Hearts. . . . While the rule has been thoroughly probed from every angle and discussed many times by officials, many are doubtful as to just what it means . . .

LISTENING silently to several arguments on this question convinced me that the rule is not fully understood by many spectators, and for their edification I hope to be able to make clear this rule. . . . It is not a breach of the rule for a player to be in an off-side position, only when he is in that position and interferes with an opponent, or with the play. . . There are several instances when a player cannot be offside . . . one, from a goal-kick; two, from a corner kick; three, from a throw in; four, when the ball has been last played by an opponent; five, when he is in his own half of the field, and when he is behind the ball. . . .

ALL concerned would be well advised to remember that the corner kick and throw in involve two players [illegible] executing the kick or throw in and the first player of his own side to receive the ball. . . It's a risky play to be in an offside position at any time as a quick change of play may spoil a good chance of scoring. Another point to remember . . . It is not where a player is when he plays the ball, but where he WAS at the moment it was played by one of his own players.

REMEMBER also, a player once offside cannot put himself onside. . . . This can only be accomplished in three ways. . . first, if an opponent next plays the ball; second, if he is behind the ball when it is next played by one of his own side, and third, if he has two opponents nearer their own goal line . . . The above is offered purely as information for those who have not been able to acquaint themselves with the official ruling, and not in criticism to officials. . . .

MUNICIPAL fairways were haven for some, despite the blistering sun, the bite of the mosquito and the impossibility of quenching ones thirst but one trio of linksmen had their day and a fun-festival it was for them all . . . Harold Smith and Frank Hughes, well known business men of Regina, were the golf opponents, taking along with them Frank Bird of this printery and this trio put on the golf spectacle of the week-end, doing the first nine in at least 50 and failing to count the last dozen holes or so . . . But the [illegible] greens had the Regmians fooled being used to the dust-blown links back home.

BASEBALL chatter: Pete McCready was hitting the ball, getting three hits in five trips and that is the best our Peter has done for many moons. . . . Sunday's senior game was the poorest of the season—possibly two seasons—and the boys were playing under Australian rules, for everything was witnessed, errors, hits and runs mostly. . . . Fred "Larruping Lou" Lupul returned to the local ball campaign and, despite the fact he made a couple of errors, looked good. . . . Fred had all his old "fire" back and smacked the ball for a home run, belting out a couple of singles to boot. . . . Ken "Red" Caldwell made his customary error, but the big-framed ball-buster made up for it as he drove out three hits in five trips up. . . Lloyd, while he does not have the stance, or the actions that would make him a "natural," is playing smart ball, getting his usual quota of hits and made a couple of smart catches. . . . There was little smart ball, so the less said the better.

In Finals

FRED PERRY

PARIS, June 1.—Fred Perry, England's famed tennis star, had to muster all his cunning and tennis art yesterday to defeat Christian Boussus, first ranking French star, in the semi-finals of the French hard courts singles championship. Perry, hard pressed all the way, eliminated the Frenchman, 6-4, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2, to join Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany in the finals. The German easily defeated Marcel Bernard of France in straight sets, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1.

SOFTBALLERS PLAN SCHOOL GIRLS' LOOP

Several Are Named as Officials to Guide Student Stars

It was definitely decided at the last meeting of the league to open at an early date a softball school to serve the interests of the league. Those mentioned as worthy of office were Jack Young, Robert Lee, Harold Oldring and Eidding Oldring. As a junior league is now operating it was felt that pupils of this school would tend to build an even more efficient league than now existing.

Last night saw 12 teams battling away, each trying desperately to bring up a couple more points to their credit in the league standing. The Eastwood Eagles' win over the powerful McCauley Dynamiters came as a distinct surprise; and the Bonnie Doon Dynamos sure gave the Doughty Demons from Scona a jolt, when they smothered the Demons for a 14-1 count. Games played last night were:—

SOUTHERN SECTION

As the Riverdale Redskins could not field a team in time for the game, the Rossdale Rookies tucked away a couple of valuable points. The Bowen ball-busters probably would have taken the contest had it been played.

Cloverdale Canucks took a hard-fought game from the Oliver Orioles to the tune of 9-7. As the score indicates, the game was a nip and tuck affair all the way through. For the Canucks Adeline Langois was outstanding, while Audrey Barber, Bettw Bowser and K. McRitchie were colorful indeed for Lefty Lee's Lassies.

The Doughty Demons were way off their usual high standard of ball last night, and as a consequence the Bonnie Doon Dynamos went to town and plastered a 14-1 win over the Demons. The black magic of the Demons just didn't work at all.

NORTHERN SECTION

Ordinarily you would think a cougar could take a cub, but this did not prove the case, when the Central Cougars met the Calder Cubs. The Cubs tore out a 22-4 win over the Central girls, and were the far stronger aggregation on the night's play. For Central Frederick and Butlin were the highlights, and for the Rankin-Young machine, Atkey, Coates and Taylor were the stellar performers.

With a few of the regulars not playing, McCauley Dynamiters failed to show their usual blasting powers; and the Eastwood Eagles soared to great heights by reaching out and getting 14 runs to McCauley's 5. Elsie Dixon of Eastwood made five hits in five trips to the plate, and considering one was a four-bagger that was mighty good batting indeed. Flo Reid hurled a three hit game for the winners, and was truly impressive.

Bill Nikipilo took his team over to Westmount and did well to collect five runs off a strong pitcher like Audrey Smith, who does the heaving honors for the Westmount Wolverines. If Bill sticks with his Aces another year he sure will have a powerful squad. Westmount well earned their win of 13-5 over the Alberta Avenue Aces.

The game between the Carruther Capitols of North Edmonton and the [illegible] Maples was a great [illegible] the Capitols finally taking the decision 16-11. The Caps had [illegible] too much finish for the Highland squad, or else the score might [illegible] been reversed.

Crawford and Quist Defeat Budge, Mako In Five Grand Sets

Stars From Down Under Rally to Thrilling Uphill Triumph by Scores of 4-6, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4 Sunday

By BOB CAVAGANRO

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist really came from "down under" Sunday to trim Donald Budge and Gene Mako, a couple of California kids, in a thrilling uphill five-set doubles match to give Australia a 2-1 lead over the United States in the American zone Davis cup tennis series. The scores were 4-6, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4.

Needing only two points for victory in the tenth game of the fourth set, Mako flubbed an easy smash into the net, attempting a put-away for the valuable point. This failure demoralized the Americans' team-work and paved the way for Australia's triumph.

The victory of the Wimbledon doubles title-holders virtually ended America's chances of recovering the international trophy lost to France nine years ago.

BREAK SINGLES EVEN

As the result of the even break in the opening two singles, in which Quist walloped Wilmer Allison, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1 and Budge outlasted Crawford 62, 6-3, 4-6, 1-8, 13-11, and Sunday's conquest, all the Australians need is one victory in today's concluding singles. Although visibly fatigued from 10 gruelling sets in the last two days, Crawford is favored to take Allison in the first match, and the Budge-Quist contest is regarded as a toss-up.

MAKO FALTERS

Mako's collapse in the critical 10th game was followed by another blow-up by the Los Angeles blond in the seventh game of the final set. As the result of capturing the first three frames, with a break through Quist's delivery in the second, the Americans led the Australians 4-2 and once again seemed to have the match sewed up.

Eager to end the conflict, Budge, who was serving, and Mako moved up to the service line after the delivery. Crawford set up a short lob. Mako called to his partner, "I have it!" and then blasted the ball out into the stands holding 6,000 spectators. The Australians used him for their target on the next point, this time Quist executing the lob and once again Mako smashed the ball out.

It was the finish for Budge and Mako.

HAD EXHIBITION

Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta and Vivian McGrath of Australia, left out of the actual competition, put on an exhibition after the doubles match. Grant won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, and there were some who immediately raised eyebrows at the American team leader, Walter Pate, for using Allison instead of "Bitsy".

In Saturday's first singles encounter, Quist set down Allison by steady rather than spectacular play. In the first two chapters of the other match, Crawford was baffled by the towering Californian's speed, and although it was risky business Crawford obviously passed up the sets trying to figure a way to handle it.

Leading 30-15 and two points away from victory in the twenty-second game of the marathon, final set, Crawford netted these needed points with careless volleys in what amounted to the turning point. Budge held his service in the twenty-third game, and although denied match point twice in the next game, he finally finished with a placement and a forehand shot that forced Crawford to hit out.

Bulletin Employee Hurt Softball Tilt

In a game played between the District Managers and The Bulletin Carriers at Elk Island Park, where The Bulletin Circulation Department was holding its annual picnic, Don McAllister had his nose fractured. Andrew H. Brown, main branch manager, was at bat, and taking a mighty swing at the ball, the bat slipped out of his hand and caught McAllister between the eyes. The managers won the game 17-7.

Firethorn Cops In Belmont Race

NEW YORK, June 1.—Walter M. Jeffords' Firethorn yesterday won the 50th running of the rich Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park, nosing out William Woodward's three-year-old Granville in a finish so close the judges had to view the photograph before posting the numbers. Hal Price Headley's Whopper was third, two lengths behind.

Jap Swim Team Does Fast Time

TOKYO, June 1—Japan's Olympic swimming team trials uncovered a wealth of new material to help stand off challenges from other countries for acquatic honors at Berlin.

Outstanding among the new stars was Shunpei Udo of Rokkyo University who won the 1,500 metre free style finals in 19 minutes 45.6 seconds. Udo also won a heat in the 400 metre free style in 4:55.4, the day's best showing.

ARROWS WIN OVER EMPIRE SENIOR GAME

Busses Take 12-9 Count in Ragged Game Of Baseball

Everything but smart baseball was prolific in Sunday's senior game at Boyle street park in which Arrow Busses shellacked Empires by the large count of 12-9. Yes there were errors, plenty of them, hits—a total of 25, and last but not least, a wild scoring orgy which lasted two hours and 20 minutes for the nine innings.

A total of 27 players, the larger percentage of whom were "dead" from the heat were seen parading from bench to bat to field as they moved mechanically, without life or interest in the game. They gave the large Sunday afternoon crowd a game which was listlessly contested, and one in which the daffiest of indifferent play was produced.

HEAVY HITTING

It was a heavy hitting and heavy scoring game in which no less than 12 errors were counted, and at that mark scorers stopped counting the misplays.

Arrows started the large parade of runs in the second as they scored two, then the Empires came in for four, and while the Arrows got one in each of the third and fourth frames, Empires got a singleton in the fourth to keep one run up. It was all square as the first half of the fifth was over only to see Empires race across for three runs, and then the Arrows had their two big innings, scoring four in the sixth and three in the seventh. Empires, with one run in the sixth had the game tied, but soon lost out as the busmen got their three in the seventh and held on to that margin.

GAME WAS GIFT

Bill Lupul twirled the full nine for the Arrows and while he was clouted for 16 hits he held them scattered at times and had little trouble as his mates hit well behind him and Empires handed the game out on a platter as they committed seven errors.

Wilkie started the twirling for Empires. He also was clouted heavily but managed to stay even with Lupul, but asked to be taken out and relieved by Shannon. But Shannon did not last long. He was relieved by Pete McCready, who was an inning later taken out and Lefty Lutz came to the mound. Lutz twirled better ball than did the others, but with a poor fielding staff behind him, was given little chance.

Fred Lupul with a home run and two singles was one of the big hitters. Harney and Paull were next best in distance clouting as they got a triple each while Lloyd, Sams, Cowan, Wilkie and Caldwell each got doubles.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

"That wooden man is very cute," said Dotty. "Don't scare him, now, or he will sprout right out of sight," said Goldy. "I want him to stay and play.

"He seems a rather friendly sort, and we could have a lot of sport. Say, mister, how do you turn out such real cute dolls that way?"

"Oh, it's not hard, if you know how. I'd like to teach someone, right now," the kind old man replied. "Who of this Tiny bunch is game?

"If you do what I tell you to the task will be a cinch for you. If not whatever happens you will be the one to blame.

* * *

"I'd like to try," said Scouty. "Gee, I hope the bunch won't laugh at me if I turn out a wooden doll that really is not right."

"I'll do the very best I can, with lips and such from this kind man." Then Dancy yelled, "I'll bet your doll will be an awful sight."

He's teasing you, so don't you care. Just hop up and stand on this chair," the man exclaimed. "At least, young man, you're brave enough to try."

"I'll get a little piece of wood and then, if you saw as you should, you'll have a real good laugh on little Dancy, by and by."

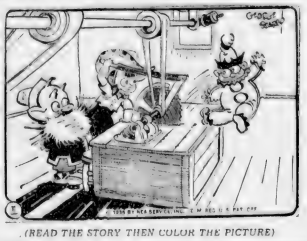

* * *

Fair Dotty in the meantime played with the first doll. Near her it stayed. She found that it could walk, and it was cute as it could be.

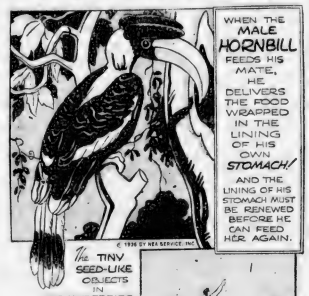

Soon Scouty shouted, "Hip, hooray. My little doll is on its way. Well have another playmate, soon. Just keep your eyes on me."

The Tinies watched in keen delight. "Say, this is sure to turn out right," said Cippy. Then the doll flipped from the saw and toppled down. The old man picked it from the floor and then the Tinies heard him roar. "You've made a funny fellow, son. This is a little clown."

(Some more wooden clowns are made in the next story.)

Curious World — By William Ferguson

Although Jupiter, outer giant of the sun's family of planets, it never is seen as a disk, as Venus sometimes is, even though it is much farther from us. It appears merely a tiny star, and can be seen in daylight only under extremely favorable conditions, and then only by persons with exceptional eyesight. Venus, however, can be seen clearly in daylight, at times.

The Glamorous Adventure

by Jean Seivwright © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, winner of a prize for costume design offered by a large silk manufacturing company, comes to New York to find work. She is hired—due to a stroke of luck—by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. Madame proves temperamental and difficult to work for.

DEREK HARGREAVES, young artist, is interested in Gail, and offers her friendly advice. Frequently Gail sees DICK SEARLES, whose sister, ROSEMARY, was her roommate at school.

Meanwhile, in Arizona, MARK CHAPMAN, long a wanderer, returns to find his old home in the hands of the Travers Mining Co. Mark suspects the deed is crooked. He does not know the whereabouts of his niece, Gail, rightful owner of the property.

REX HALL, Madame Lizette's son, is representing the Travers company. Gail goes to spend the week-end at the Searles' home. Dick asks her to marry him and again she refuses. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

NATALIE PRESTON swung into step with Gail. "Hello," she said, "you look as though you'd won a fortune! Did you have a nice time over the week-end?"

"I was late Monday afternoon and both girls were coming home from work.

"Gorgeous!" Gail told her. "The Searles are darlings and they have the loveliest home."

"I want to hear all about it," Natalie urged as they entered the club house. "You certainly look pleased about something. Have you had any other excitement?"

"I should say I have!" Gail's voice was jubilant. "Madame Lizette couldn't come to the shop today, and I had to run things myself. Madame had an accident—not serious, though she cut her foot rather badly when she slipped and fell with some glasses in her hand. I don't think she'll be down for a day or two."

Gail smiled as she thought how well things had gone that day. Maybe it wasn't just right for her to feel that way, but she hoped Madame would remain at home for several days.

"Well, with that on top of your week-end I don't suppose you'd care to dine with me tonight and take in a movie?"

"Natalie! You know I'd love to go with you. It's sweet of you to ask me."

"All right. How soon will you be ready?"

"In about a quarter of an hour. I always feel so grimy after working all day."

"You certainly don't look it," Natalie replied, opening the door of her room.

When they met in the foyer later Natalie said, "I know a jolly little place just off Madison avenue where they serve delicious meals. The cooking is Swedish. Do you think you'd like that?"

"I'm sure I would."

A short walk brought them to their destination and once again Gail felt as though she had been transported to some other land. The waitresses were dressed in peasant costume, and the decorations were typically Scandinavian. "How clean everything looks!" Gail exclaimed as they seated themselves at a table for two.

"Oh, Signe's a perfect martinet. She's the owner of the tearoom—lured to be a cook on Park avenue, working for some wealthy family. When the old man died he left her enough to set her up in business for herself. She had always said that was what she wanted most."

"How interesting! Is there any chance of seeing her?"

"Yes. She is in and out all evening. There she is now!"

Gail's eyes followed the direction Natalie indicated. "What a handsome woman!" she cried, noting the tearoom proprietor's graceful carriage, masses of blond hair and big blue eyes.

"They serve awfully good food here. Shall we order?"

After they had consulted the menu and given the waiter their order their talk drifted to Gail's visit at the Searles' home.

"You went to school with young Searles' sister, didn't you?" Natalie asked.

"Yes. Rosemary was my roommate at school. Dick says she's coming home soon. I'm sure you'd like her. Maybe we can have lunch together some day."

"I'd love that. I suppose lots of wealthy girls go to Merrywood Hall," Natalie, eagerly studying news of society events, had frequently noticed that many of the most popular brides were graduates of Miss Cranston's exclusive school.

"Yes. I wouldn't have been able to stay after Dad died if it hadn't been that Miss Cranston was an old friend of my mother's and she insisted on keeping me there. I'm so glad I won the Lerne prize because I'm naturally an independent person."

"I'm sure no one would ever grudge doing anything for you. I know I wouldn't."

"That's sweet of you to say so," answered Gail, wondering if her estimate of Natalie had not been harsh. Perhaps it was kindly interest and not just inquisitiveness that prompted the other girl to ask so many questions.

"You must have felt dreadfully when you found you were penniless." Natalie went on. "Still I should have thought if your father had any paintings they would have brought a good deal."

"No, they didn't. At the time my father died, lots of galleries were closed. A friend of Miss Cranston's told her that pictures which would sell for hundreds of thousands of dollars in normal times were being given away by artists for just enough to pay for a meal."

"Really!"

"Yes. I know lots about art and artists." Gail smiled as she remembered her gay, improvident father. The sale of a picture was always an occasion for a celebration—perhaps a grand dinner with a theatre party afterwards, or in the summer a long week-end at some seaside resort. Peter Everett gave little thought to the future!

The waitress served them. Then, as she hastened away to attend to other customers, Natalie remarked, "I've been thinking a lot about you since we met. How strange it must seem for you to be all alone. I've such heaps of relatives. They make me tired. I wish some of them had never been born!"

"Natalie! What a dreadful thing to say! You don't know how I envy you. If I had even one living relative I'd be, oh, so happy!"

For an hour the girls dawdled over their food, comparing their likes and dislikes. As they rose, Natalie insisted on paying. Gail remonstrated, but the other girl paid the check. Again Gail felt that not only she, but those girls whose remarks she had overheard, had misjudged Natalie. Gail could not know that there was method in Natalie's generosity.

As they approached the movie theatre, Natalie suddenly exclaimed, "There's someone we should know —Rita Cordell. She's fashion editor of one of the newspapers." Hurrying after her, Natalie called, "Rita!"

"Oh, hello, Natalie!"

"I want you to meet the winner of the John S. Larne prize—Gail Everett. She's Madame Lizette's new designer."

"Oh, I'm delighted. It was only a few days ago that I asked Mr Larne about the prize winner. He said he understood a society girl had won it and probably she wouldn't do anything further with her art."

"I'm a working girl," Gail answered. "I called at Mr. Larne's office but he was in the south, so I just went ahead and got this job." It sounded very simple. Gail wondered whether she should have mentioned Derek Hargreaves' part in it, for now she realized if he had not come to her aid, she might still be wandering about New York looking for work.

"I'm due at Lizette's some day soon. Maybe she'll let me have one of your designs for my column. I'm ever so pleased to have met you. Be seeing you soon!"

As Rita Cordell hurried away Natalie said, "I'm awfully glad we met her. She can do heaps for you. And you know if you want to get ahead you've got to cash in on all the publicity you can get. Grab it every time. Take that from someone who knows."

"I guess you're right," Gail answered, remembering something Derek had said. Then, in a burst of confidence, she added, "I'm only a babe when it comes to the business end of things. You see, I've never had any business experience, though, of course, I didn't stress that too emphatically to Madame." She laughed.

"That's right. Most business is done on bluff nowadays—only the bluffers are usually shrewd enough to make good when they get the chance. But there—you were going to tell me about the Searles' home. You see I'm quite keen on houses. In fact, I've seriously thought of taking up interior decoration."

"Well, you'd love 'Heart's Delight' if you're interested in real homes. Even before you step inside, it seems to lay a spell on you." Gail described the plan of the house, its decoration and setting.

Natalie listened eagerly. Then she said, "See here, Gail, if you ever get a chance of an option on young Searles, be sure and snatch it. Places like that and a nice young man thrown in are not handed out every day."

Her keen eyes saw the color dye Gail's fair cheeks. She smiled, "Maybe I'm giving this advice too late. Maybe I'm talking to young Searles' fiancee right now!"

"Dick's nothing to me except a very good friend, like the rest of the family. What a ridiculous conclusion to jump to!" Gail exclaimed as they entered the movie theatre.

It was almost midnight when they returned to the clubhouse, but as they passed the desk glancing casually at the mail rack, Gail saw something in her box.

"Oh, you've got some letters," Natalie remarked as the girl at the desk handed Gail two.

"No," Gail answered recognizing the clubhouse stationery. "They must be sending the bills out early this week."

When she reached her room she opened one of the envelopes and drew out a small slip on which was typed: "A telephone call was received for you at 8:15. Please call Schuyler 4927." The other contained a similar slip, but the time was 9 p.m.

"Derek's number!" Gail murmured. "What can he want?"

A small boy leading a donkey passed by an army camp. A couple of soldiers wanted to have some fun with the lad.

"What are you holding on to your brother so tight for, sonny?" said one of them.

"So he won't join the army," the youngster replied without blinking an eye.

If the entire period of the earth's existence were represented as a day of 24 hours, man, in his present form, would have lived only during the last minute, say biologists.

Biological survey figures show that hunters in the United States bag about 15,000,000 waterfowl annually, not counting the 7,000,000 which are crippled and lost.

Approximately one-third of the entire area of the United States consists of forest lands.

Him—For 2 cents I'd kiss you.
Her—Well, here's 50 cents, let's get going.

"Are you still bothered by those relatives of yours who come down from town to eat a big Sunday dinner, and never invite you in return?" asked Mrs. Smith.

"No," said the unfortunate victim. "They finally took the hint."

"What did you say to them?" asked Mrs. Smith eagerly.

"Nothing was said," explained the other, "but we served sponge cake every time they came."

Father: "Why were you kissing my daughter in that dark corner last night?"

"Flaming Youth. "Now that I've seen her in daylight I sort of wonder myself."

Bulletin Comics Are The World's Best

What's Your Number — Numerology Series — —By Mario

MIRIAM HOPKINS, born Oct. 8, in Brainbridge, Ga., determined upon a career on the stage when she was a child. With a "3" Birth Force, she possessed talent

2 Destiny

With her Destiny Number "2," Numerology contends that Miriam would be an expert at following direction and exercise the greatest care in detail which are requisites of a stage career. She has much ability in painting and might have been that kind of an artist, had she not selected acting for her profession. Her first stage appearance in New York was in 1922 where she danced in "The Music Box Revue." She then got dramatic roles, doing so well that she obtained a London engagement.

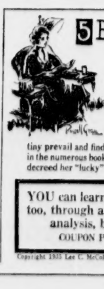

7 Heart

Her film career began in 1930, when she was given a Paramount contract. With No. 7 as a Heart Force, it can not surprise Numerologists that Miriam can not be especially interested in romances for her number makes her "difficult to convince" and rather critical of suitors. She is beautiful and charming, with a lovely southern accent and is filled with enthusiasm for just about everything save affairs of the heart. She could, indeed, be in her real life the 'Becky Sharp' she was in her technicolor picture by that name.

5 Birth Force

A "5" Birth Force is likely to vibrate to desire for change and tendencies to abandon everything for another line of endeavor. But Miriam, her public is glad to see, obviously is going to let her "2" Destiny prevail and find her love of change satisfied in the numerous books she reads. Numerology has decreed her "lucky" companions are "2's."

YOU can learn all about yourself, too, through a personal character analysis, by numerology!

Aero Club Notes

Harold Stuart, Jr., Nelson, B.C., and John Paget, Innisfree, Alberta, have written the Edmonton Aero Club for information about the various flying courses given here.

Joe Kormendy, J. Beirnes, J. Duddle, Campbell, H. Douglas, Milner, McVicar, Patry, Warren and J. Milner soloed over the week-end. The former passed the practical test for a private pilot's license Thursday.

* * *

J. L. Kilpatrick has enrolled in the ground school class.

Lionel Dunsmore, pilot-instructor of the Saskatoon Air Club, was in the city last Saturday. He and Ted Field took their first course at Borden together.

* * *

Dr. W. E. Dixon, Stettler, brought his new Porterfield monoplane to Edmonton so that his fellow members of the Edmonton Aero Club might see his importation. The doctor took delivery of the craft at Winnipeg, being flown from Kansas City by a factory representative. It has been test flown by the instructors of the Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon and Calgary clubs, and pronounced a splendid job. The registration is a private one, CF-AYV.

Capt. Maurice Burbidge is taking the government course in blind flying at Vancouver. Pilot Russell Sandgate, of the Calgary Aero Club, is also taking the course. J. Tweedy, of Lethbridge, is temporarily in charge of the Calgary Club.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, June 1—Major interest in the bond market today swung toward the United States government list on the treasury's formal $2,000,000,000 offering for its June financing. Minor irregularity was shown.

Business in the foreign list was limited and prices generally showed narrow variations.

MARKETS CLOSED

LONDON, June 1—All European financial and commodity markets were closed today in observance of White Monday.

Today's Markets

At Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, June 1.—Teck-Hughes was a heavy trader in the mining division at an advance of about 40

Pamour touched 5.20 and closed below the $5 mark for a net gain of about 35. McLeod-Cockshutt, Hard Rock, O'Brien and Preston were below their early prices, but a little ahead on the day.

Dome opened at 61, a point up, but dropped the gain and Hollinger dropped a small fraction.

Central Patricia, Read-Authier, Macassa, Chibougamau, Sullivan and Siscoe were all steady to higher. Silvers were lifeless.

Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, June 1.—The industrial section of Toronto Exchange moved forward today in light volume.

Nickel registered a minor gain, although it was selling ex-dividend 30 cents and gains of about ¼ each appeared for British American Oil and International Petroleum.

B. C. Power A, Bell Telephone and Power Corporation closed higher.

C.P.R. held narrowly to the up side, while Brazilian, Ford A and Consolidated Smelters were unchanged to slightly lower.

At New York

NEW YORK, June 1.—Cheering business news brought quiet buying into today's stock market and leading steels, rails and specialties pushed up fractions to a point or more.

Utilities were not so vigorous, and there were scattered losers in evidence, but the close was firm. Transfers were around 750,000 shares.

Among the best performers were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet and Tube (at a new year's top), National Steel, American Steel Foundries, Republic Steel, Santa Fe, N.Y. Central, Great Northern, M-K-T preferred, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, Corn Products, Warner Bros., Radio, Pullman, Schenley, Byron Jackson and American Smelting.

Certain-Teed Products dropped nearly 2 following announcement of recapitalization plans. Commercial Investment Trust, ex-dividend 20 per cent in stock, sold around 0. It closed last Friday at 82½.

At Montreal

MONTREAL, June 1. — Montreal Stock Exchange listings sold slowly today with price changes confined to fractions.

Canada Cement preferred had the highest advance with Howard Smith preferred up a point and St. Lawrence Corporation preferred up ¾.

Distillers Seagram eased ¼ to 22¾ while Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" was up ⅛.

Hollinger finished about ¼ off while Noranda and Nickel were up ¾ each, closing at 56⅞ and 47¾ respectively. Consolidated Smelting was off ⅜.

Brazilian and Shawinigan gained slightly. C.P.R. gained ⅛. Lake of the Woods eased ¼.

COOL WEATHER LOWERS WHEAT

WINNIPEG, June 1—Ending of a week-long heat wave over western Canada brought lower prices for wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Values closed 1 to ⅞ cent lower, July at 75⅞ and October 76⅞-77 cents.

Though little rain fell on the parched wheat fields during the week-end, the comparatively cool weather that prevailed throughout the west today was believed to have averted serious damage to the new crop.

Scattered selling that came in the wake of cooling winds found the market lacking support. Trading, however, was dull.

With Liverpool still closed in observance of Whitsuntide, export sales of Canadian wheat during the week-end were negligible.

Cash grains trading was slow, with spreads little changed. Coarse grains prices held quietly steady.

Bulletin 'Classified'—Where Buye and Seller, Landlord and Tenant Meet

Builds Deadly Plane, Now Worries About Defence

The airplane shown in the layout is the latest thing in instruments of destruction, and illustrates graphically the armament-maker's art. The airplane, which is the new R.A.F. "Fairey" bombing airplane, is so fast that it makes combat airplanes useless. With a speed of over 300 miles per hour, non-breakable glass encasements for the pilot and gunner, special fighting equipment in addition to bombs, the new aircraft marks a long forward step in the development of attacking airplanes.

So effective is the machine, however, that British aviation experts are wondering what they can build now to act as a defence against it. Ordinary fighting airplanes cannot cope with the speed and manoeuverability of the "Fairey"; it has retractable undercarriage, three-blade propeller, spirit wing flaps to reduce landing speed, all-metal airframe except for control surfaces, and a new 12-cylinder Rolls-Royce engine. It has a wing spread of 34 feet and an overall length of 42 feet. Bombs are carried inside the wings.

RAIN RELIEVES ROASTING CITY

A falling barometer brought rain—62 inches of it—Monday morning and the forecast for the first time since May 23 read: 'Warm with scattered showers.'

Sunday with high humidity was not the hottest day of the year, as the mercury climbed only as high as 84 between 3 and 4 p.m. From midnight it dropped to 60, touched 54 above at 4 a.m. Monday and was back at 60 again by 9 a.m. Monday.

May, 1936, was the hottest on record. The average temperature for the 31 days was 57.1. In its wildest charge to the top of the glass the mercury got as high as 94, the hottest for 20 years in any part of May.

May also distinguished itself with abnormal rainfall, 2.26 inches, bettered only in 20 years by 1926, when 3.61 inches fell.

The fifth month of 1936 produced 267 hours of sunshine, second highest amount in 20 years.

FALL FATAL TO MRS. DE SOUSA

Mrs. Fanny Mary de Sousa died here Saturday evening from injuries received in a fall on the verandah of her home Wednesday afternoon.

She came to Alberta with her husband, the late John de Sousa, in 1897, from the British West Indies. They made their home in Calgary where her husband was district accountant of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Funeral service will be held in Andrews Brothers funeral chapter at 4 p.m. Monday afternoon with Rev. H. A. McLeod of Robertson United church officiating. The body will be sent to Calgary for burial.

RIVER RISES 3 FEET HERE

Rise of three feet five inches in the river was recorded by James Buchanan, of the Alberta Motor Boat Co., over the week-end, the height above ice level being seven feet eight inches at 9 a.m. Monday, as compared to four feet three inches at the same hour Saturday.

Mr. Buchanan, who keeps a daily record of the river's rise and fall, anticipates that the water will rise 20 to 22 feet above the ice level before the peak is reached this month. Melting ice and snow in the mountains is responsible for the greater volume of water.

West from the High Level bridge the shore has already disappeared beneath the fast-moving water.

FERRIES CEASE WORK IN NORTH

With rivers rising in the Peace River area, the Dunvegan, Smoky and Taylor ferries have ceased operation. Roads however are in good shape in the northern area and crews at Slave Lake are operating.

All roads throughout the province are in good shape Monday.

A detailed report from the Alberta Motor Association reads as follows:

Edmonton to Jasper, road passable. Edmonton to St. Paul, roads good. Edmonton to Athabasca, Smith Slave Lake, Peace River and Fort St. John, roads good. All ferries not operating except at Smith. Edmonton to Camrose, Chauvin, Wainwright, Hughenden, North Battleford, Muthurst, Vetcran, Calgary, Provost, roads in good condition.

Archbishop and bishops of the ecclesiastical districts are confirming here in the British House of Commons.

Mrs. Prausa Dies Sunday

Active in social welfare work and in religious organizations over a lengthy period of years, Mrs. Katherine M. Prausa died in a city hospital on Sunday, following a brief illness. She was 49 years old.

Mrs. Prausa was born 49 years ago at Lucan, Ont., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Merkin. In 1911 she was married to Weinzel Prausa, an official of the internationally-known firm of Revillon Freres and subsequently lived in this city and New York. She had arrived in this city with her family from Ontario in 1899.

LIVED NEW YORK

From the time of her marriage in 1911 until 1922 she lived here and then moved to New York. Later Mr. Prausa died at Yakima, Wash.

Mrs. Prausa was an active member of the St. Joseph's Cathedral parish, the Catholic Women's League, the Third Order of St. Francis and the Sacred Heart League.

FIVE CHILDREN

She is survived by five children, Misses Kathleen, Dorothy and Margaret and Walter and Frank. She is also survived by two brothers, Tom Morkin, of Cardston and Frank Morkin of Vancouver and five sisters, Martha Morkin, New York; Nora Morkin, San Diego; Mrs. Edward Hogan, St. Albert; Mrs. James McPeake, Edmonton and Mrs. Julia Dean, San Francisco.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, 10009 114 street to St. Joseph's cathedral at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

HOCKEY CHIEF RETURNS HOME FROM ENGLAND

MONTREAL, June 1. — Percy Nicklin, the man who won England her first Olympic hockey title, came in Montreal yesterday. He is en-route to his Fort Frances, Ont. home, but anxious to get back to the old country just as soon as the hockey season comes around again.

Nicklin is not on a player hunt. Rather he is just vacationing. "We have too many players under suspension now by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association without getting into more trouble," he said.

The former coach of the Moncton Hawks when the Maritimers won the Allan Cup, said there will be two more teams in the English Hockey League this season. Both of them will operate in a new rink being built by Major-General A. C. Critchley, Calgary-born promoter of greyhound racing.

Nicklin has been commissioned to line up players for Critchley's new teams, but said he would confine his recruiting to players already operating in the British Ice Hockey Association. Jimmie Foster, Winnipeg goalie, and Earl Nicholson, Regina forward, have already been lined up for one of the teams, he said.

Thieves Active Over Week-End

A large quantity of clothing and various other articles were stolen from the Jesuit College, 127 street and 118 avenue, sometime over the week-end. Entrance was gained by breaking a window at the side of the recreation hall.

Picking the lock on a penny weight safe at the Strathcona hotel, sometime over the week-end, thieves escaped with about $6.00 in coppers, according to G. B. Porter, hotel proprietor.

Thieves who broke into the home of P. Barfardi, 9961 86 avenue, escaping with a small amount of cash.

Gaining entrance by smashing the lock on the basement door, thieves ransacked the premises of the Service Department store, at 104 street and Whyte avenue, and escaped with $10 in cash.
